Red Infiltration In Arab World Has Mixed Success

By ALY MAHMOUD
Associated Press Writer
CAIRO (AP) — Communist infiltration in the Arab world is a mixture of success and failure. It has given the Russians a big voice in the area, but it hasn't done the Arab Communists any good.

For 15 years the Soviet Union has been the main supplier of arms to many Arab states. Thousands of Soviet technicians, army officers and diplomats roam about freely in some Arab countries.

The Soviets have undertaken a mammoth construction schemes in Egypt and Syria. Egypt's billion dollar Swan High Dam, its near-billion dollar iron and steel complex at Hewan are examples.

The Soviets have gained strong footholds in the Middle East and at the northern gates of the African continent. But there is a growing trend in the Middle East toward rejecting local Communists, their ideology as well as their physical presence.

The 74-hour red coup in Sudan last month aroused so much resentment in Egypt and Libya that vigorous efforts were quickly mobilized to quench it. After Maj. Gen. Jaafar el Numairi was restored to power, he ordered a ruthless hunt for all Communists in his country.

Sudan's Communist party, although officially banned, counted more than 20,000 followers and was considered the largest and best organized in Africa and the Middle East. The failure of the coup has reduced its strength substantially.

Numairi's crackdown on the Communists and his execution of the Sudanese party's top leaders angered Moscow, which attacked Numairi violently in its newspapers. Numairi expelled Soviet and Bulgarian diplomats from his country, recalled his ambassador to the two Communist countries and sent his defense minister to Peking to discuss economic and military aid, previously supplied by Moscow.

At the onset of the coup, the Soviet ambassador to Egypt, Vladimir Vinogradov, was reported to have called on President Anwar Sadat and urged him to support the rebels. Sadat is said to have reacted angrily, telling the ambassador he could never do so.

Hours later, Boris Ponomarev, a secretary of the Soviet Communist party, met Sadat in Cairo and again appealed for support for the coup. Informed sources say Sadat replied that communism could never be accepted in the Arab world, and he would fight it unflinchingly.

Libya's leader, Col. Muammar Kaddafi, publicly attacked Arab Communists and declared he would oppose communism throughout the Middle East.

Sadat differentiates between friendship with the Soviet Union and acceptance of Arab communism.

Because its stakes in the Arab world are high, the Soviet Union seems to have toned down attacks on Numairi and pressure on Sadat, and decided to drift with the Arab currents for the moment. Experienced observers of Communist trends in the Middle East say Moscow has always realized the futility of trying to implant communism in the Arab mentality, which is basically religious and conventional.

Unions Would Support Wage, Price Controls

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The AFL-CIO Executive Council has pledged to support across-the-board federal wage and price controls if President Nixon deems them necessary to aid the economy.

"We are prepared to cooperate with mandatory government controls, if the President decides they are necessary, provided such controls are even-handed and across-the-board," AFL-CIO President George Meany declared Monday following a meeting of the 35-member council.

In a statement, the council opposed curbs on wages without some restraints on prices, profits, interest rates and other corporate income.

"Wages are only one factor in the cost of any products, and actions which would freeze only wages and not other cost factors would create economic chaos," the council said in a statement which Meany read to newsmen.

"As a result of 2½ years of gross mismanagement by the Nixon administration, the country is in an economic mess," it said. "We will do our patriotic duty, but we will not be the scapegoat for the economic failures of this administration."

About five million workers are unemployed and several million others are employed less than full time, because industry is operating at only 73 per cent of capacity, Meany said.

He said the executive council is calling for:

—Release of $12 billion in public works and other funds approved by Congress but frozen by Nixon.

—Full funding of government programs for low and moderate income housing, education, health care and pollution controls.

—An increase in the federal minimum wage to at least $2 an hour.

—Lowered interest rates to increase money and credit to expand the economy.

The executive council also issued a statement urging the Nixon administration to reject tax programs which "erode" federal tax revenue and "move the tax structure further away from the principle of ability to pay."

Army Desertions Increase To World War II Levels

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the shrinking U.S. combat role, the Army's desertion rate in the Vietnam conflict has climbed to the peak set in World War II.

The number of desertion cases in the first 10 months of the 1971 fiscal year, which ended June 30, increased to 68,449, the equivalent of 4½ combat divisions. Figures for the final two months will push it even higher.

Desertion—absent without official leave for more than 30 days—has been on the rise since escalation of the Vietnam war was begun in 1965. In 1968 the desertion rate surpassed the Korean war high of 22.5 per 1,000, but until then it had been below that of World War II.

According to figures supplied by the Army, the rate of desertions for fiscal 1971 as of April was 62.6 per 1,000 men, compared with 52.3 or all of fiscal 1970. During World War II the Army's desertion rate hit a peak of 63 for 1,000 in 1944.

The AWOL and desertion rate for the Navy and Air Force is almost minuscule compared to that of the Army and Marine Corps. The Marines, however, report a decline in their desertion figures from a high of 59.6 per 1,000 in fiscal to 56.1 per 1,000 last year.

A great majority of deserters either are picked up or voluntarily return to their units. Because of the legal difficulty in proving intent of never returning to duty, most are tried on the lesser charge of being AWOL.

A Senate Armed Services subcommittee accused the Pentagon two years ago of a lack of concern and failure to deal sternly with the thousands of

New Violence Said 'Worst In Months'

Prime Minister Says Government, IRA 'At War'

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Northern Ireland counted a heavy cost today for the bloodiest 24 hours in half a century of religious and political feuding.

The bill came to at least 14 dead, 94 injured and millions of dollars in damaged property.

At least 40 people have been killed in the communal warfare in Northern Ireland this year and at least 70 lives lost since a Catholic civil rights campaign renewed traditional Protestant-Catholic violence two years ago.

Although a fragile peace descended with first light, now and again snipers fired on British troops. At midday, in the Lower Falls area of Belfast two soldiers fell wounded by sniper fire.

The Protestant-dominated government on Monday rounded up more than 300 suspected terrorists and Prime Minister Brian Faulkner invoked emergency powers to intern them indefinitely without trial.

He said the raids were aimed at the outlawed Irish Republican Army, which is dedicated to reuniting Northern Ireland with the Irish Republic by "bullet and bomb" if necessary.

The reaction was swift and bloody—a wave of rioting, shooting and looting. British troops were the main targets for roaming bands of guerrillas.

The death toll from Monday's fury may be higher. Some unofficial reports said 20 persons died in the street fighting in Belfast, Londonderry, Newry and other towns.

"We don't know how many people may have died where the fighting was thickest and have simply been hauled away by friends," said a British army spokesman.

Fire and explosion wreaked havoc in homes and factories across the six counties of this British province, but with the dawn a semblance of normal life returned to the capital's littered streets.

In two years of rioting Belfast alone totals up property damage and personal injury claims of $39.6 million.

Many a Northern Ireland worker became jobless during the night from fire bombs.

Among the dead were two British soldiers, two boys and a Roman Catholic priest killed in a crossfire as he administered the last rites to an IRA gunman.

"It's all-out war now," an IRA leader declared Monday after a 25-year-old IRA officer was shot dead. Witnesses said he was shot by a Protestant.

In Belfast, factories, stores and homes went up in flames. More than 100 Protestant houses on the edge of the Cath-

Dock Strikes Threatening Boost In U.S. Farm Income

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dock strike on the West Coast and prospects for another along Gulf ports are threatening to beach Nixon administration hopes for a hefty boost in American farm income this year.

Exports are the key to any administration plan for increasing income figures during the next 12 months. U.S. farmers already ship overseas the output from one-fourth their acreage—$7.8 billion last fiscal year.

The West Coast tieup began July 1 and already has bitten deeply into some farm exports. Now a new walkout in the offing Oct. 1 at Gulf ports and a chance it may spread to Eastern docks deeply shadows the outlook for exports.

Tax Impasse Could End In Senate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hints of a sudden resolution of the Ohio Senate's stalemate on tax and budget matters were everywhere Monday night.

The six-man Ways and Means subcommittee—chaired by Sen. Michael Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati—probing the $1.5 billion tax package, closed the door on further hearings.

Maloney told a large audience at the subcommittee meeting following the Senate's floor session, "There will be no more testimony after tonight. I'm concerned we could be here until Christmas hearing this bill."

Twenty-two more amendments to the proposed income tax were offered at the final session. Last week, 60 amendments were presented, largely by special interest groups.

Maloney said he would spend today with legislative aides and representatives from the Legislative Service Commission trying to put amendments into legal form.

By Wednesday, he said, the subcommittee would be in a position to begin making "policy decisions" about them.

Included among those decisions will be whether the state adds income taxes to its sales and excise tax system.

Income tax support appears to be waning. Some Senate sources late Monday suggested agreement was near on increase in state sales taxes from four to six per cent, and a hike in the corporation franchise tax from five to eight per cent, based on net worth.

Under the expanded sales and excise tax system, state revenues would be increased by about $800 million over the biennium.

The $8.2 billion budget passed by the House in May calls for more than $1 billion in new spending.

Problems Plague Wives Of Missing GI's

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul Wood of Tucson, Ariz. was 6 years old when his father, Maj. Patrick Wood, was shot down over Vietnam and listed as missing in action. That was 1967.

A year later, when Wood was promoted to lieutenant colonel, the boy asked his mother, Karen, "do you suppose they'll let him come home by the time he's general?"

The hardest questions come from the children, poignant and unintentionally cruel because their mothers, wives of the 1-157 Americans listed as missing in action in Vietnam, must hedge their answers.

Unlike the wives of the 465 men known to be prisoners of war, and unlike the widows or mothers of the 45,400 Americans killed, these women have neither the comfort of knowing their men are alive nor an official, and legally helpful, pronouncement that they are dead.

Mrs. B., who has been raising two children alone for more than five years, has little hope that her husband is alive. Nothing has been heard from him since the night his plane disappeared, and she thinks the government should change his classification from missing to killed in action.

Yet, like the many another MIA wife, she asks, "What if I should remarry, and by some great miracle, he comes home alive?"

"What if?" Two words that already begin a thousand thoughts will be the start of a thousand more as the war continues. Lawyers and government officials agree that questions for the MIAs and their wives will become more and more complicated.

Most of the women interviewed were appreciative, but they talked more of daily frustrations of the "missing signature"—for the house they want to buy or the car they want to sell, for the insurance they want to claim or the loan they want to get, for the charge accounts they'd like to open or the mortgages they'd like to close—even, in some states, to give permission for a child to go on an out-of-state trip with his class.

Like many servicemen, Lt. Col. Wood had given his wife power of attorney, a legal device allowing her to transact his business should he become missing or a prisoner. As soon as she received word that he was missing, Karen Wood had the house and car placed in her name.

She left the stocks and bonds in their joint account, however, and a year later, when her power of attorney expired, she could not sell their holdings.

"I feel like I want to join Woman's Lib," she said. "Even with power of attorney people turn up their nose."

Another MIA wife, Maureen Dunn of Randolph, Mass., said that she's even had trouble opening charge accounts since her husband's plane disappeared in 1968.

"To get a charge account, I fill out a form that my husband is a Navy lieutenant," she said. "I list his office as Washington, D.C., and if it says how long, I put four years. If they ask for more information and I have to say he's missing, it takes weeks longer than anyone else."

Virginia Fobair of Tampa, Fla., 29-year-old wife of an Air Force pilot who's been missing

Coast Guard Arrests 3 In Hijacking

HONOLULU (AP) — The yacht Kamali is expected to arrive tonight after being wrested from three alleged hijackers about 300 miles south of Honolulu at the climax of a sea chase by a Coast Guard cutter and rescue plane.

The 75-foot ketch is being escorted by the machinegun-armed Coast Guard cutter Cape Corwin which caught the vessel early Monday. Guardsmen boarded her and arrested three men.

They are Kerry D. Bryant, 25, Los Angeles; Michael R. Melton, 24, Bakersfield, Calif.; and Mark E. Maynard, 27, Lewiston, Idaho.

The yacht is being brought in by a crew from the cutter, Cape Corwin, and yacht owner, millionaire oilman Larry Doherty of Los Angeles and Honolulu. Doherty went with the Corwin to intercept the yacht, which he said is worth $150,000.

The FBI would not say what the men would be charged with. The U.S. attorney's office earlier asked the Coast Guard to arrest the men on kidnapping and robbery charges.

The suspects are accused of boarding the vessel in Waikiki's Ala Wei Yacht Harbor late Friday and taking over from three crewmen at gunpoint.

Problems Plague Wives Of Missing GI's

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul Wood of Tucson, Ariz., was 6 years old when his father, Maj. Patrick Wood, was shot down over Vietnam and listed as missing in action. That was 1967.

A year later, when Wood was promoted to lieutenant colonel, the boy asked his mother, Karen, "do you suppose they'll let him come home by the time he's general?"

The hardest questions come from the children, poignant and unintentionally cruel because their mothers, wives of the 1-157 Americans listed as missing in action in Vietnam, must hedge their answers.

Unlike the wives of the 465 men known to be prisoners of war, and unlike the widows or mothers of the 45,400 Americans killed, these women have neither the comfort of knowing their men are alive nor an official, and legally helpful, pronouncement that they are dead.

Mrs. B., who has been raising two children alone for more than five years, has little hope that her husband is alive. Nothing has been heard from him since the night his plane disappeared, and she thinks the government should change his classification from missing to killed in action.

Yet, like the many another MIA wife, she asks, "What if I should remarry, and by some great miracle, he comes home alive?"

"What if?" Two words that already begin a thousand thoughts will be the start of a thousand more as the war continues. Lawyers and government officials agree that questions for the MIAs and their wives will become more and more complicated.

Most of the women interviewed were appreciative, but they talked more of daily frustrations of the "missing signature"—for the house they want to buy or the car they want to sell, for the insurance they want to get, for the charge accounts they'd like to open or the mortgages they'd like to close—even, in some states, to give permission for a child to go on an out-of-state trip with his class.

Like many servicemen, Lt. Col. Wood had given his wife power of attorney, a legal device allowing her to transact his business should he become missing or a prisoner. As soon as she received word that he was missing, Karen Wood had the house and car placed in her name.

She left the stocks and bonds in their joint account, however, and a year later, when her power of attorney expired, she could not sell their holdings.

"I feel like I want to join Woman's Lib," she said. "Even with power of attorney people turn up their nose."

Another MIA wife, Maureen Dunn of Randolph, Mass., said that she's even had trouble opening charge accounts since her husband's plane disappeared in 1968.

"To get a charge account, I fill out a form that my husband is a Navy lieutenant," she said. "I list his office as Washington, D.C., and if it says how long, I put four years. If they ask for more information and I have to say he's missing, it takes weeks longer than anyone else."

Ex-Washington C.H. Man Involved In Treasure Hunt

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, Ohio (AP) — The late Robert S. Harper Sr., Washington Court House journalist, won his greatest recognition in his knowledge and study of the Civil War period.

Now his son, Robert S. Harper Jr., of Los Alamos, N.M., formerly of Washington Court House, is embarking upon a sea adventure also related to history.

Young Harper has been a photographer and film producer for the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory for the past 15 years. He also has ability as a scuba diver, which qualifies him for a forthcoming marine archaeological expedition seeking artifacts from sunken ships in the Western Caribbean.

He will sail soon with a crew of about 25 other adventurers aboard the Fathom, a converted Navy minesweeper. They will salvage and photograph wrecked ships of the Honduran coast and in international waters.

Harper's plan is to produce a 16mm color sound film for possible release to a major TV network with the theme of portraying the skills of the adventurers in finding and salvaging archaeological treasures from the rotting hulls of sunken ships.

Harper has already participated ed as co-leader of an expedition off the northern tip of the Yucatan Peninsula, where divers salvaged gold coins and other valuable objects from an 1847 wreck.

The elder Harper, a former member of the Record-Herald staff here, was long associated with the Ohio Historical Society. He gained wide recognition for his book, "Lincoln and the Press," and was recognized as an expert on Civil War journalism and Abraham Lincoln.

China Won't Mediate War, Chou Says

NEW YORK (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai says Communist China will not mediate the Vietnam war "in any way" and will continue to support the forces opposed to the United States pending complete U.S. withdrawal, the New York Times reported today.

Chou made his comments to James Reston, vice president and columnist of the Times, in a recorded interview in Peking last week, the newspaper said.

Reston said Chou was prepared for very broad discussions of world problems when President Nixon visits Peking some time before next May.

Chou stressed that he wanted to talk about the changing roles of the United States, Japan and the Soviet Union in Asia and the Pacific, and was not solely preoccupied with the problems of the Vietnam war or the two-Chinas controversy, Reston said.

Reston reported Chou also made these points: —Chou voiced some concern over what he termed the budding revival of Japanese militarism and ambitions in Taiwan and Korea.

—China's position on U.S. membership is that it will be in alone or out, that U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers' "two-Chinas" formula was "not a step forward." On the question of Taiwan, he said, "we are willing to sit down and enter into negotiations with the U.S. government for a settlement."

—Chou stressed that no private deals had been made during the recent visit of Henry Kissinger, the President's adviser on the national security affairs.

—The Chinese are preparing for the possibility of a Soviet nuclear attack by digging underground tunnels in "the great majority" of its big and medium cities. Chou said China is "not a nuclear power. We are only in the experimental stage." He rejected a Soviet proposal for a conference of the five nuclear powers, calling instead for a conference of "all the countries of the world" to eliminate nuclear weapons.

—He proposed that "a way should be found to bring about a rapprochement between the two sides in Korea and to move toward a peaceful unification of Korea."

Moon Photos Show Stark, Gray World

Astronauts Said In Good Shape; Extra Exam Set

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The space agency today released five strikingly beautiful color pictures taken by astronauts David R. Scott and James B. Irwin as they explored a valley of the moon at Hadley Base.

Scientists, meanwhile, continued their preliminary examination of Apollo 15's moon rocks and doctors scheduled an extra physical exam for the spacemen, who returned to earth Saturday from their 12-day journey.

The first Hadley Base pictures released show the astronauts, their lunar lander Falcon and their moon car on the stark, desolate lunar plain. The sky is jet black, the deep surface dust is gray.

There are shots of the two astronauts saluting the American flag; Irwin sitting in the moon buggy and standing beside it, and the buggy itself, surrounded by the footprints of the explorers.

Rising in the distant background in four of the pictures are sections of the Apennine Mountains, their tops rounded like terrestrial hills.

A sixth color shot shows the command ship Endeavour orbiting 70 miles above the moon. It was snapped from the Falcon while the two ships were separated.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration also released nine black and white photos of similar content. It delayed release of a film clip until Wednesday.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, the astronauts' chief physician, summoned Scott, Irwin and Alfred M. Worden to the extra physical today to monitor how fast they are readjusting to earth's gravity after experiencing weightlessness and the moon's one-sixth gravity.

Berry reported after a four-hour exam Monday that "the crew is in good general condition. However, their performance had not returned to pre-flight levels." He referred mainly to exercise on a bicycle-like device. The doctor noted that all Apollo crews have been affected similarly for two to three days after splashdown because weightlessness caused some deconditioning of the heart pumping system.

Berry said there was no cause for concern, he just wanted to get a better idea of the readaptive process.

Berry also reported that Scott developed minor bleeding under three fingernails on his right hand and one in his left hand during the first lunar surface excursion "due to work done with the tightly fitting suit glove." He said the problem did not affect Scott's work.

Scott and Irwin Monday night joined with scientists and geologists to view the first box of moon samples opened in a sterile, glass-enclosed pressure cabinet.

India Claims U.S. Actions 'Forced' Pact

MOSCOW (AP) — "Wouldn't you say Washington pushed us into it?" an Indian diplomat said of the new friendship treaty India and the Soviet Union signed in New Delhi Monday.

He cited continued U.S. aid to the Pakistani army during the East Pakistan crisis and President Nixon's plans to visit Communist China, signalling the possibility of an American understanding with a country India regards as an adversary.

Senior Indian diplomats said their government hopes the treaty will prove to be a deterrent to both Pakistan and Red China.

They said a draft of the treaty was prepared as long ago as 1969 and that the text signed Monday by Foreign Ministers Andrei A. Gromyko and Swarn Singh differed only marginally from the original draft.

The new confrontation with Pakistan and President Nixon's overtures to Communist China combined to push the Indians into a decision to sign the treaty, the diplomats said. New Delhi sent D.P. Dhar, a former ambassador to the Soviet Union, to Moscow secretly last week. After four days of talks, Gromyko's visit to India was announced, but there was no inkling that the treaty was in the offing.

The announcement of the pact Monday was as much of a surprise to the Pakistani government of President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan as it was to everyone else. It had no immediate comment, but informed sources in Rawalpindi said it invited Gromyko to visit on the way home from New Delhi.

Official American reaction came from Secretary of State William P. Rogers who said he hoped the new pact would have "an effect for the good." He met with U.N. Secretary-General U Thant to discuss U.N. relief operations in East Pakistan and among the seven million East Pakistani refugees in India. But Rogers denied he had discussed political aspects of the Indian-Pakistani situation with Thant.

Stock Prices Nearly Even

NEW YORK (AP) — Glamors strengthened today to help buoy the stock market in light trading.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial was off 0.14 at 842.51.

Declines clung to a narrow lead over advances among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Some analysts said reports from Zurich that the dollar was gaining after recent weakness might account for the turnaround in the market which had been slipping in early trading.

In glamors, Natomax was up 2 1/4 at 77 1/4; IBM was ahead 3/4 to 284 3/4; Polaroid was up 1 at 104; Memorex was ahead 1 1/4 at 29 1/4; and Bausch & Lomb was up 4 1/4 to 129.

Motors and airlines were fractionally higher while most other categories were mixed.

Among the big blocks traded before noon were 99,900 shares of AMF Inc. at 34 off 1 1/4 and 61,300 shares of Household Finance at 44 off 1 1/4.

Jackson Hits Leftists In Demo Party

NEW YORK (AP)—The Democratic party is in danger of sinking next year under the weight of party leftists who laugh at the working man and sneer at law and order, Sen. Henry M. Jackson said today.

"Their cocktail parties abound with snide jokes about 'hard-hats' and 'ethnics' while other 'chie' radicals'... are busy calling the cops 'pigs' and romanticizing common criminals as 'political prisoners'..." the Washington Democrat said.

He said they regard the law-and-order issue as "phony, demagogic and unclear." In so doing, Jackson said in a speech prepared for 1,300 representatives of the New York State Federation of Labor, leftists are alienating working Americans of all racial and ethnic backgrounds who "have traditionally provided the mass electoral base for liberal Democratic victories and programs."

Jackson, who says he will announce early in the fall whether he will enter the race for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, did not mention names in his third, and by far strongest, attack against what he sees as the threat to the party by radicals.

The common man sees two economic issues for 1972, Jackson said: "Nixon is draining his pocketbook and the muggers are swiping it."

The rich, he said, are protected against crime by doormen, closed-circuit TV cameras, well-lighted streets and distance from the slums.

"But who protects the working man?" he added. "If he cannot look to liberal Democrats... Where, in heaven's name, can he look?"

A sixth color shot shows the command ship Endeavour orbiting 70 miles above the moon. It was snapped from the Falcon while the two ships were separated.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration also released nine black and white photos of similar content. It delayed release of a film clip until Wednesday.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, the astronauts' chief physician, summoned Scott, Irwin and Alfred M. Worden to the extra physical today to monitor how fast they are readjusting to earth's gravity after experiencing weightlessness and the moon's one-sixth gravity.

Berry reported after a four-hour exam Monday that "the crew is in good general condition. However, their performance had not returned to pre-flight levels." He referred mainly to exercise on a bicycle-like device. The doctor noted that all Apollo crews have been affected similarly for two to three days after splashdown because weightlessness caused some deconditioning of the heart pumping system.

Berry said there was no cause for concern, he just wanted to get a better idea of the readaptive process.

Berry also reported that Scott developed minor bleeding under three fingernails on his right hand and one in his left hand during the first lunar surface excursion "due to work done with the tightly fitting suit glove." He said the problem did not affect Scott's work.

Scott and Irwin Monday night joined with scientists and geologists to view the first box of moon samples opened in a sterile, glass-enclosed pressure cabinet.

India Claims U.S. Actions 'Forced' Pact

MOSCOW (AP) — "Wouldn't you say Washington pushed us into it?" an Indian diplomat said of the new friendship treaty India and the Soviet Union signed in New Delhi Monday.

He cited continued U.S. aid to the Pakistani army during the East Pakistan crisis and President Nixon's plans to visit Communist China, signalling the possibility of an American understanding with a country India regards as an adversary.

Senior Indian diplomats said their government hopes the treaty will prove to be a deterrent to both Pakistan and Red China.

They said a draft of the treaty was prepared as long ago as 1969 and that the text signed Monday by Foreign Ministers Andrei A. Gromyko and Swarn Singh differed only marginally from the original draft.

The new confrontation with Pakistan and President Nixon's overtures to Communist China combined to push the Indians into a decision to sign the treaty, the diplomats said. New Delhi sent D.P. Dhar, a former ambassador to the Soviet Union, to Moscow secretly last week. After four days of talks, Gromyko's visit to India was announced, but there was no inkling that the treaty was in the offing.

The announcement of the pact Monday was as much of a surprise to the Pakistani government of President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan as it was to everyone else. It had no immediate comment, but informed sources in Rawalpindi said it invited Gromyko to visit on the way home from New Delhi.

Official American reaction came from Secretary of State William P. Rogers who said he hoped the new pact would have "an effect for the good." He met with U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant to discuss U.N. relief operations in East Pakistan and among the seven million East Pakistani refugees in India. But Rogers denied he had discussed political aspects of the Indian-Pakistani situation with Thant.

Representatives of Switzerland's big commercial banks met in Zurich with officials of the Swiss National Bank to discuss the situation following the decision Monday to place the Swiss franc equivalents of dollar sales in frozen accounts for 10 days.

The Swiss National Bank took this action to stem a large influx of "hot dollars" poured into Switzerland by speculators hoping to profit by a further weakening of the dollar on European markets. The Swiss telegraph agency estimated the national bank purchased $500 million before ordering the freeze.

Many European money dealers hope something will be done in line with a report issued Saturday in Washington by a House - Senate economics subcommittee. It said the dollar was overvalued and urged a realignment of its rate in relation to the currencies of the world's industrial nations.

Developments on the money market were having repercussions on gold, whose value is tied to that of the dollar.

On Monday, the price of gold bullion in London was fixed at $43.94 an ounce, the highest level in 2 1/2 years. The gold price eased to $43.30 at this morning's fixing. The official price is $35 an ounce.

Asked if he read the license approvals as evidence of favorable consideration by the administration, the spokesman said "your question might lead logically" to such a conclusion but added the company is making no such presumptions.

Navy Acquires Rescue Submarine
SUNNYVALE, Calif. (AP) — The Navy has accepted its first rescue submarine—a torpedo-shaped vessel capable of rescuing crewmen from stricken subs at depths down to 5,000 feet.

Andrews Favors Sales Tax Boost
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Republican Chairman John S. Andrews said today he was convinced that an increase in the sales tax would be more acceptable to most Ohioans than a state income tax.

Andrews made his views known in a letter to Rep. Robert E. Netley, R-7 Laura, a leader of the opposition to the graduated personal income tax passed by the House, and now pending in the Senate.

Jackson Hits Leftists In Demo Party

NEW YORK (AP) — The Democratic party is in danger of sinking next year under the weight of party leftists who laugh at the working man and sneer at law and order, Sen. Henry M. Jackson said today.

"Their cocktail parties abound with snide jokes about 'hard-hats' and 'ethnics,'" while other 'chie radicals' are busy calling the cops 'pigs' and romanticizing common criminals as 'political prisoners,'" the Washington Democrat said.

He said they regard the law and order issue as "phony, demagogic and unclear."

In so doing, Jackson said in a speech prepared for 1,300 representatives of the New York State Federation of Labor, leftists are alienating working Americans of all racial and ethnic backgrounds who "have traditionally provided the mass electoral base for liberal Democratic victories and programs."

Jackson, who says he will announce early in the fall whether he will enter the race for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, did not mention names in his third, and by far strongest, attack against what he sees as the threat to the party by radicals.

The common man sees two economic issues for 1972, Jackson said: "Nixon is draining his pocketbook and the muggers are swiping it."

The rich, he said, are protected against crime by doormen, closed-circuit TV cameras, well-lit streets and distance from the slums.

"But who protects the working man?" he added. "If he cannot look to liberal Democrats... Where, in heaven's name, can he look?"

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Married Man With Fiancee In Trouble

DEAR ABBY: I am in the middle of a nightmare and don't know where to turn. First let me explain that I have always been a decent, church-going man and I have never in my life cheated on my wife. (Before this.) She's a fine woman and we have a wonderful family.

I was laid off from my regular job, so I went to another state and found a job there. I was very lonely and got mixed up with a young girl. I foolishly didn't tell her I was married.

We became more and more involved, and I even gave her an "engagement" ring. (I must have been crazy.)

Now the girl says she's pregnant, and we have to get married right away. I certainly can't marry her and she refuses to get rid of the baby because she considers an abortion "murder."

If the girl's father finds out I am married he will kill me. If I run out on the girl and am caught they will put me in jail. I am making good money at this job which I desperately need to support my family. So, Dear Abby, how do I get out of this mess?

ALL FOULED UP
DEAR ALL: First, make absolutely sure that the girl is pregnant. If she is, I doubt if you'll be lucky enough to get into a nice safe jail. You must tell your girl friend about your wife. Then you must tell your wife about your girl friend.

Then tell a lawyer the whole story. And pray.
DEAR ABBY: Do you think we should let Laurie, our 10-year-old daughter, spend the night with some of her little girl friends who have older brothers?

One of Laurie's friends has a 15-year-old brother, and another has two brothers, 11 and 14. They are neighbors, but we really don't know the parents very well.

This argument comes up about every weekend, and Laurie ends up crying because we don't let her go.

ON THE FENCE
DEAR ON: Don't let Laurie stay overnight anywhere unless you know the parents, and are assured that there will be adequate supervision for a 10-year-old. Most teen-aged boys regard their little sisters as "pests," and have no interest in them or their friends, but one can't generalize. If I sound like a "Dirty Old Lady" it's only because I'd rather be safe than sorry.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a girl who would come to another girl's wedding dressed like a bride herself?

Well, that's what happened to me, and needless to say, it spoiled my wedding day. When somebody asked her why she wore her own wedding gown to my wedding she said,

"That's all I had to wear. She even wore the flowered crown she got married in, but hank heaven she left off the veil. Nevertheless, she looked just like a bride, and I was very unhappy when I saw her."

What should my attitude be toward her in the future? I used to consider her a friend.

BALTIMORE BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: It is hard to believe that she couldn't have found something else to wear to your wedding. Anyone who is so hungry for attention that she would try to upstage the bride is a very insecure girl. Fly her.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HAD IT IN ARIZONA": There is something worse than a reformed drunk. A drunk who hasn't reformed yet.

Group Formed In Opposition To Strip Mining

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)—Yet another group has been formed to fight for abolition of strip mining in West Virginia, and its organizers say they do not feel they are contributing to a split in anti-strip mining ranks.

"There is so much work to do, no single organization can do it," said Joe Cook, an employee in the Office of Federal-State Relations and one of the more militant of the abolitionists.

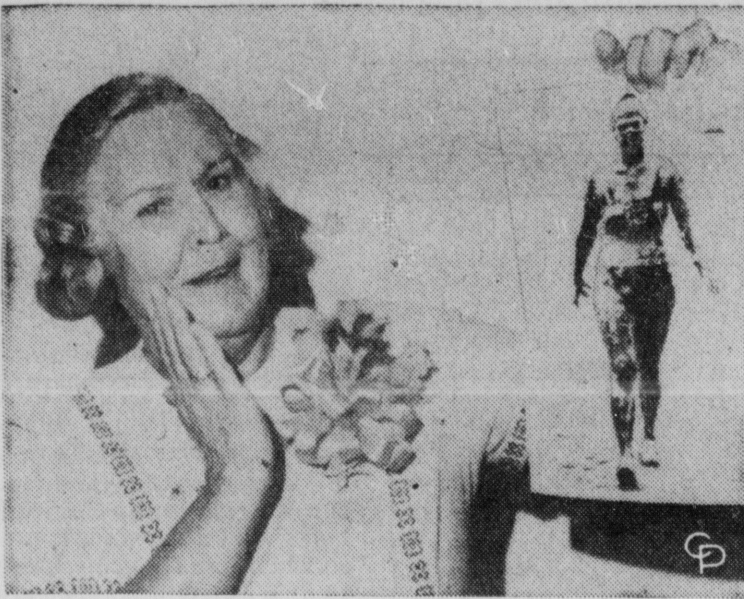

The group — Mountaineers to Save West Virginia — was formed by a nucleus of militant anti-strippers from around the state who say they are "action oriented" and representative of broad-based grass-roots sentiment against strip mining.

Cleveland Solon Attacks Ohio Bell

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — State Rep. George E. Mastics, R-52 Cuyahoga, accused the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. Monday of misleading its customers in seeking a rate hike of "monumental proportions."

Mastics, a frequent opponent of Ohio Bell on rate matters, said that while the company was contending in advertising that its rate hike request was only the second in 12 years, "What Ohio Bell really should be saying is that this is their second rate application in little over a year."

Mastics charged that Ohio Bell was preparing its present rate application at about the same time it was arguing for its earlier $80 million rate hike.

Sergeant Freed In Viet Killing

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — A white sergeant accused of killing a black enlisted man in a racial incident at a U.S. Army camp here was acquitted today of an unpremeditated murder charge.

An all-white jury of five officers ruled that Sgt. Jerry L. Holden, 21, of Fort Worth, Tex., acted in self-defense when he shot and killed Spec. 4 Christopher Brown, 20, of Ridgeville, S.C.

The jury found Holden guilty, however, of illegal possession of a .45-caliber pistol. He was fined $100.

Brown was killed last March 25 at Camp Baxter, a transportation and vehicle maintenance base in Da Nang. Court-martial testimony indicated there was considerable racial tension at the camp, with frequent fights and confrontations between gangs of whites and blacks.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Married Man With Fiancee In Trouble

DEAR ABBY: I am in the middle of a nightmare and don't know where to turn. First let me explain that I have always been a decent, church-going man and have never in my life been on my wife. (Before this.) She's a fine woman and we have a wonderful family.

I was laid off from my regular job, so I went to another state and found a job there. I was very lonely and got mixed up with a young girl. I foolishly didn't tell her I was married.

We became more and more involved, and I even gave her an "engagement" ring. (I must have been crazy.)

Now the girl says she's pregnant, and we have to get married right away. I certainly can't marry her and she refuses to get rid of the baby because she considers an abortion "murder."

If the girl's father finds out I am married he will kill me. If I run out on the girl and am caught they will put me in jail. I am making good money at this job which I desperately need to support my family. So, Dear Abby, how do I get out of this mess?

ALL POULED UP

DEAR ALL: First, make absolutely sure that the girl is pregnant. If she is, I doubt if you'll be lucky enough to get into a nice safe jail. You must tell your girl friend about your wife. Then you must tell your wife about your girl friend.

Then tell a lawyer the whole story. And pray.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think we should let Laurie, our 10-year-old daughter, spend her night with some of her little girl friends who have older brothers?

One of Laurie's friends has a 15-year-old brother, and another has two brothers, 11 and 14. They are neighbors, but we really don't know the parents very well.

This argument comes up about every weekend, and Laurie ends up crying because we don't let her go.

Please help us decide.

ON THE FENCE

DEAR ON: Don't let Laurie stay overnight anywhere unless you know the parents, and are assured that there will be adequate supervision for a 10-year-old. Most teen-aged boys regard their little sisters as "pests," and have no interest in them or their friends, but one can't generalize. If I sound like a "Dirty Old Lady" it's only because I'd rather be safe than sorry.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a girl who would come to another girl's wedding dressed like a bride herself?

Well, that's what happened to me, and needless to say, it spoiled my wedding day.

When somebody asked her why she wore her own wedding gown to my wedding she said, "That's all I had to wear."

She even wore the flowered crown she got married in, but hank heaven she left off the veil. Nevertheless, she looked just like a bride, and I was very unhappy when I saw her.

What should my attitude be toward her in the future? I used to consider her a friend.

BALTIMORE BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: It is hard to believe that she couldn't have found something else to wear to your wedding. Anyone who is so hungry for attention that she would try to upstage the bride is a very insecure girl. Pity her.

Group Formed In Opposition To Strip Mining

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)—Yet another group has been formed to fight for abolition of strip mining in West Virginia, and its organizers say they do not feel they are contributing to a split in anti-strip ranks.

"There is so much work to do, no single organization can do it," said Joe Cook, an employee in the Office of Federal-State Relations and one of the more militant of the abolitionists.

The group—Mountaineers to Save West Virginia—was formed by a nucleus of militant anti-strippers from around the state who say they are "action oriented" and representative of broad-based grass-roots sentiment against strip mining.

Cleveland Solon Attacks Ohio Bell

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—State Rep. George E. Mastics, R-52 Cuyahoga, accused the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. Monday of misleading its customers in seeking a rate hike of "monumental proportions."

Mastics, a frequent opponent of Ohio Bell on rate matters, said that while the company was contending in advertising that its rate hike request was only the second in 12 years, "What Ohio Bell really should be saying is that this is their second rate application in little over a year."

Mastics charged that Ohio Bell was preparing its present rate application at about the same time it was arguing for its earlier $80 million rate hike.

Sergeant Freed In Viet Killing

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP)—A white sergeant accused of killing a black enlisted man in a racial incident at a U.S. Army camp here was acquitted today of an unpremeditated murder charge.

An all-white jury of five officers ruled that Sgt. Jerry L. Holden, 21, of Fort Worth, Tex., acted in self-defense when he shot and killed Spec. 4 Christopher Brown, 20, of Ridgeville, S.C.

The jury found Holden guilty, however, of illegal possession of a .45-caliber pistol. He was fined $100. Brown was killed last March 25 at Camp Baxter, a transportation and vehicle maintenance base in Da Nang. Court-martial testimony indicated there was considerable racial tension at the camp, with frequent fights and confrontations between gangs of whites and blacks.

Something Different

Vacationing in Antarctica would have about as much appeal for most tourists as, well, vacationing in the Arctic. But, surprisingly, hundreds of tourists do spend upward of $5,000 to go to the huge southern icecap each year.

Antarctica is one of the few remaining spots in the world where tourists never formerly went which is now the scene of increasing tourist activity simply because most tourists won't go there. It is all part of a growing business in promoting off-beat vacations for those who are tired of the usual leisure action.

As for what tourists do when they get there: They can visit a couple of cabins left by early explorers, they can take picture of the penguins, and they can stare at the icy expanse. Mostly, they can tell their friends back home what an unusual place they visited this year.

Installment Vacations

There is still growing proof of the popularity of the phased-out vacation, three or four days or a week now and then, instead of all at once. This development is an accompaniment of longer vacations.

When vacations were seldom more than one or two weeks, they were nearly always taken at one time, usually in the summer. Now vacations can be of any length, any frequency and at any season.

Most persons seem to prefer this new arrangement and so do some employers, but not all. Vacationers can enjoy a variety of vacations in the same year. Some employers say it distributes their vacation leave time more evenly, others say it disrupts routine.

Anyway, the installment vacation is here to stay.

This is a good year to fasten your seat belt, even at the office. It is the year of the wobble, and that, say government scientists, means increased earthquake activity.

The idea of a seven-year cycle to earthquakes, coinciding with an exaggerated wobble by Earth as it turns around on its axis, has been receiving added prominence in recent years. Now seismologists for the National Earthquake Information Center cite evidence to support the theory.

Energy released by tremors so far this year, they say, already exceeds the total for any one year since 1964. And, they add, there is plenty of wobble time remaining in the year.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

One of the paradoxes of highway travel is that, as motor cars kill more people over the years, the safer it is to take a trip in one. Despite an increase of four million more cars and trucks and three million more drivers over last year, the National Safety Council reports the traffic death rate has dropped to an alltime low—4.7 per 100 million vehicle miles traveled.

Urban pollution isn't a new problem in America. "The atmosphere in Philadelphia has caused sore eyes in many people, including my husband and myself," wrote the nation's first lady, Martha Washington, in a letter to her niece, Fanny, on April 13, 1794.

How about giving a salute today to the 13,000 living Americans who have passed their 100th birthday? May they all have a long and happy life!

Speaking of the elderly, a British medical researcher advances the heartening view that many of the signs of so-called senility—such as mental confusion and disorientation—are often merely the result of dietary deficiencies. "Many of the elderly," he said, "tend to live on a diet consisting of potatoes and a few slices of bread and jam."

Ahhh-hoo! Hay fever is no longer an ailment merely to be sneezed away. Its 16 million victims in the United States alone spend an estimated $150 million a year for treatment of it. It can easily be avoided, however, by simply moving to a deep cave or one of the polar caps.

Worth remembering: "After several thousand years, civilization has advanced to the point where we bolt all our doors and windows at night while the jungle natives sleep in an open hut."

It was Martin Luther who observed, "To prop up a sad and discouraged mind is better than to conquer a kingdom."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A DRAFTEE asked the head of his examining board, "Who's going to take care of my girl while I'm in Vietnam?" The accommodating examiner answered, "If you happen to have a snapshot of her with you, it's possible I'll be able to answer that question."

From Diran Kavaljian, in Massachusetts, comes this darling little anecdote: A Sunday school class comprised of little boys who always sat in their same chairs every Sunday, had a teacher who always, every Sunday, would begin her lesson with the identical series of questions. Each Sunday she would ask the first little boy sitting in the first little chair, "Who made you?" His answer: "God." Her second question of the second little boy, "Who was the first man?" always received the usual answer: "Adam." Of the third little boy she'd ask, "Who was the first woman?" with an answer of "Eve," etc.

One Sunday the first little boy was absent and the teacher started her usual questioning with the second little boy: "Who made you?" to which he replied: "Adam." "No, dear," the teacher hurried to correct, "Adam didn't make you; God made you," to which he rebutted, "The little boy that God made is not here today."

Ohio State enthusiast Earl Wilson: "In my youth, grandma was careful not to lose her figure. Today she's careful not to misplace it."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

We watch the hippies walking along the streets in bare feet, their hair unkempt, and their clothes unwashed.

Besides the obvious health hazard to themselves, can't they transmit germs and parasites to the people who surround them?

Mrs. G.P.L., Calif. Dear Mrs. L.: I never did understand the relationship between filthy feet and evangelistic social consciousness.

If there is any message in youth's modern rebellion it certainly is not made impressive by obvious disregard for accepted standards of hygiene.

Recently, I saw four young men between the ages of 20 and 22 who developed infections while living in their spiritual commune.

I found it difficult at first to overcome my revulsion to the foul odor that emanated from them. My sensibilities were outraged, even though each of the four turned out to be charming, sincere and quite likeable.

Two were suffering from obvious malnutrition. The third was found to have hepatitis. The fourth had scabies.

Not a pretty picture. Four sensitive young men who were divitized by disease, and were cheating themselves and society of the hopes of their "love missions."

I later learned that scabies, or "the itch," occurred in epidemic form among the legions of the unwashed.

I am sure that this parasitic skin infection, caused by mites, can be transmitted whenever the contact is close. I doubt that walking past them in the street presents a threat to the community.

Yet it is pathetic to watch so many young men and women violate their real potential by abandoning all standards of good health.

When my gall bladder was removed, I was confused to learn that my appendix was taken out, even though I had had no symptoms of appendicitis.

Doesn't this procedure delay recovery and lengthen convalescence?

Mrs. F. R., Vt. Dear Mrs. R.: Many surgeons believe that there is great advantage to the removal of the appendix at the same time that other abdominal surgery is performed.

Since appendicitis can occur at any age, the routine removal of the appendix is thought to be advantageous, especially in those who have had any history of trouble with it.

You can be certain that this additional safety procedure did not delay your recovery.

All riders of bicycles, with and without motors, should legally be made to wear a protective helmet.

An Alarming Look

By JEFFERY HART

Among the charges now being leveled against the Nixon Administration by American conservatives, the most convincing and by far the most important is the claim that the Administration has done nothing to halt the dangerous deterioration in our strategic position. Nixon has failed, said a dozen leading conservatives in a statement issued on July 26, "to call public attention to the deteriorated American military position in conventional and strategic arms, which deterioration, in the absence of immediate and heroic countermeasures, can lead to the loss of our deterrent capability, the satellization of friendly governments near and far, and all that this implies."

The validity of this charge is confirmed by: 1) Administration officials, on the level just below that of the President himself, have privately been expressing extreme alarm for the past 18 months. They consider that by the mid-1970s the Soviet Union will have achieved a first-strike capacity, will have upset the "balance of terror," and will be able to practice nuclear blackmail.

2) A Blue Ribbon Defense Panel—set up by the Nixon Administration itself in July 1969—submitted its findings a year later. Its recommendations regarding Defense Department organization were quickly accepted. However, the members of the panel also became highly alarmed at what they described as the "convergence of a number of trends" indicating a shift in the balance of strategic military power against the U.S. They concluded that "if these observable trends continue the United States will become a second-rate power incapable of assuring the future security and freedom of its people." The panel reported in detail on the developing Soviet first-strike capacity, its dynamism in research and development, and its deployment of superior naval forces.

3) These trends are confirmed by the 1971-72 edition of the authoritative "Jane's Fighting Ships," a British survey of the world's navies. "The situation for the U.S. Navy is serious," noted the editor. "By any standards, the Soviet fleet now represents the supremacy of a superpower." The sections on the respective navies spell this out in chilling detail.

In the face of this accumulating evidence, the President seems strangely mute, virtually paralytic. We are bemused by individuals like George McGovern, who, instead of directing attention to our real requirements, goes about the country recommending a $6,500 guaranteed annual income. The atmosphere, indeed, is reminiscent of France in 1936. Germany had occupied the Rhineland and was arming to the teeth. The Maginot Line was incomplete, and the French army slipping into obsolescence. The country, bitterly divided and paralyzed by a large internationalist left, had a Popular Front government.

Because he headed the Vichy government after the 1940 military disaster, Marshal Petain no longer possesses the towering reputation he had in 1936, but then, as the victor of Verdun and the savior of the French army in 1916, he was the French equivalent of Eisenhower. In 1936 he warned: "Say that France is less unhappy than Germany, less unhappy than Italy. The question of bread is less important with us than elsewhere. Yet neither Germany nor Italy have doubts. We have doubts. Our crisis is not a material crisis. We have lost faith in our destiny, that is all. We are like mariners without a pilot, without a tiller. That is the thing we must struggle against . . . We come after millions of beings who have struggled and suffered for us to become what we are. They have the right to demand of us that we should at least continue their task."

If the strategic balance continues to shift against the United States, the situation could rapidly become irretrievable.

WASHINGTON MEMO

By Congressman
CHALMERS P. WYLIE
15th District of Ohio

For weeks a measure to extend the Selective Service System for two years, and increase military pay, has been stalled in a House-Senate Conference Committee as the conferees labored to reach a compromise on the so-called "Mansfield Amendment" to end the war. Finally, compromise language was adopted which states that it is the sense of Congress that the United States terminate at the earliest practicable date all U.S. military operations in Indochina and withdraw all U.S. forces at a date certain subject to the release of American prisoners of war and an accounting of all Americans missing in action. To carry out this objective, the provision urges the establishment by negotiation of an immediate cease fire. The House considered and approved the draft bill Conference Report on Wednesday. The Senate still has not acted.

On Monday, the House passed a Joint Resolution concerning the war powers of the Congress and the President. The measure was presented as a reaffirmation of the constitutional power of Congress to declare war while recognizing that the President has the authority to defend United States' interests in emergency situations without prior Congressional authorization.

When the President commits U.S. forces to combat or substantially enlarges U.S. military forces in a foreign nation without prior Congressional authorization, he must submit to Congress in writing the reasons for his action and the constitutional, legislative or treaty provisions under which he acted and state his reasons for not seeking prior Congressional approval.

The House has passed and sent to the Senate a measure concerning fees for migratory bird hunting stamps. The bill authorizes the Secretary of Interior to increase the cost of the duck stamp from $3 to $5 whenever he deems the increase justifiable to meet the increased cost of acquiring and maintaining lands used for the conservation of migratory game birds.

By a close record vote of 200 yeas to 192 nays, the House passed legislation amending the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961. The bill authorizes the appropriation of $1.37 billion in economic assistance and $2.02 billion in military assistance to foreign nations for the present fiscal year. It also authorizes $3.5 billion in foreign aid for next year.

Of the numerous amendments offered on the House floor, those receiving the most attention were: an amendment that strengthens the sections dealing with narcotics, and language placing Congress on record as opposing any further aid to Greece until it holds democratic elections and on Pakistan until its tragic Civil War ends.

Since my election to Congress, I have consistently opposed this type of foreign aid legislation because of the great expense to the taxpayer and the limited international benefits it has brought to the United States. Therefore, on Tuesday, I again voted against the foreign aid bill.

The General Services Administration has announced the publication of a Consumer Product Information Index as one of the first steps in the Administration's plan to make available more consumer information. This publication lists only those product publications currently in print. As new publications become available, supplements will be published.

Throughout the 15-page index, the consumer is advised on how to buy, use and take care of products. The publications cover many areas, including budget, shopping, building, buying, financing houses, home repairs and improvements, and health.

Worth remembering: "After several thousand years, civilization has advanced to the point where we bolt all our doors and windows at night while the jungle natives sleep in an open hut."

It was Martin Luther who observed, "To prop up a sad and discouraged mind is better than to conquer a kingdom."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A DRAFTEE asked the head of his examining board, "Who's going to take care of my girl while I'm in Vietnam?" The accommodating examiner answered, "If you happen to have a snapshot of her with you, it's possible I'll be able to answer that question."

From Diran Kavaljian, in Massachusetts, comes this darling little anecdote: A Sunday school class comprised of little boys who always sat in their same chairs every Sunday, had a teacher who always, every Sunday, would begin her lesson with the identical series of questions. Each Sunday she would ask the first little boy sitting in the first little chair, "Who made you?" His answer: "God." Her second question of the second little boy, "Who was the first man?" always received the usual answer: "Adam." Of the third little boy she'd ask, "Who was the first woman?" with an answer of "Eve," etc.

One Sunday the first little boy was absent and the teacher started her usual questioning with the second little boy: "Who made you?" to which he replied: "Adam." "No, dear," the teacher hurried to correct, "Adam didn't make you; God made you," to which he rebutted, "The little boy that God made is not here today."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

We watch the hippies walking along the streets in bare feet, their hair unkempt, and their clothes unwashed.

Besides the obvious health hazard to themselves, can't they transmit germs and parasites to the people who surround them?

Mrs. G.P.L., Calif.

Dear Mrs. L.: I never did understand the relationship between filthy feet and evangelistic social consciousness.

If there is any message in youth's modern rebellion it certainly is not made impressive by obvious disregard for accepted standards of hygiene.

Recently, I saw four young men between the ages of 20 and 22 who developed infections while living in their spiritual commune.

I found it difficult at first to overcome my revulsion to the foul odor that emanated from them. My sensibilities were outraged, even though each of the four turned out to be charming, sincere and quite likeable.

Two were suffering from obvious malnutrition. The third was found to have hepatitis. The fourth had scabies.

Not a pretty picture. Four sensitive young men who were civilized by disease, and were cheating themselves and society of the hopes of their "love missions."

I later learned that scabies, or "the itch," occurred in epidemic form among the legions of the unwashed.

I am sure that this parasitic skin infection, caused by mites, can be transmitted whenever the contact is close. I doubt that walking past them in the street presents a threat to the community.

Yet it is pathetic to watch so many young men and women violate their real potential by abandoning all standards of good health.

When my gall bladder was removed, I was confused to learn that my appendix was taken out, even though I had had no symptoms of appendicitis.

Doesn't this procedure delay recovery and lengthen convalescence?

Mrs. F. R., Vt.
Dear Mrs. R.: Many surgeons believe that there is great advantage to the removal of the appendix at the same time that

An Alarming Look

By JEFFERY HART

Among the charges now being leveled against the Nixon Administration by American conservatives, the most convincing and by far the most important is the claim that the Administration has done nothing to halt the dangerous deterioration in our strategic position. Nixon has failed, said a dozen leading conservatives in a statement issued on July 26, "to call public attention to the deteriorated American military position in conventional and strategic arms, which deterioration, in the absence of immediate and heroic countermeasures, can lead to the loss of our deterrent capability, the satellization of friendly governments near and far, and all that this implies."

The validity of this charge is confirmed by: 1) Administration officials, on the level just below that of the President himself, have privately been expressing extreme alarm for the past 18 months. They consider that by the mid-1970s the Soviet Union will have achieved a first-strike capacity, will have upset the "balance of terror," and will be able to practice nuclear blackmail.

2) A Blue Ribbon Defense Panel—set up by the Nixon Administration itself in July 1969—submitted its findings a year later. Its recommendations regarding Defense Department organization were quickly accepted. However, the members of the panel also became highly alarmed at what they described as the "convergence of a number of trends" indicating a shift in the balance of strategic military power against the U.S. They concluded that "if these observable trends continue the United States will become a second-rate power incapable of assuring the future security and freedom of its people." The panel reported in detail on the developing Soviet first-strike capacity, its dynamism in research and development, and its deployment of superior naval forces.

3) These trends are confirmed by the 1971-72s edition of the authoritative "Jane's Fighting Ships," a British survey of the world's navies. "The situation for the U.S. Navy is serious," noted the editor. "By any standards, the Soviet fleet now represents the supervisory of a superpower." The sections on the respective navies spell this out in chilling detail.

In the face of this accumulating evidence, the President seems strangely mute, virtually paralytic. We are bemused by individuals like George McGovern, who, instead of directing attention to our real requirements, goes about the country recommending a $6,500 guaranteed annual income. The atmosphere, indeed, is reminiscent of France in 1936. Germany had occupied the Rhineland and was arming to the teeth. The Maginot Line was incomplete, and the French army slipping into obsolescence. The country, bitterly divided and paralyzed by a large internationalist left, had a Popular Front government.

Because he headed the Vichy government after the 1940 military disaster, Marshal Petain no longer possesses the towering reputation he had in 1936, but then, as the victor of Verdun and the savior of the French army in 1916, he was the French equivalent of Eisenhower. In 1936 he warned: "Say that France is less unhappy than Germany, less unhappy than Italy. The question of bread is less important with us than elsewhere. Yet neither Germany nor Italy have doubts. We have doubts. Our crisis is not a material crisis. We have lost faith in our destiny, that is all. We are like mariners without a pilot, without a tiller. That is the thing we must struggle against . . . We come after millions of beings who have struggled and suffered for us to become what we are. They have the right to demand of us that we should at least continue their task."

If the strategic balance continues to shift against the United States, the situation could rapidly become irretrievable.

WASHINGTON MEMO

By Congressman
CHALMERS P. WYLIE
15th District of Ohio

For weeks a measure to extend the Selective Service System for two years, and increase military pay, has been stalled in a House-Senate Conference Committee as the conferees labored to reach a compromise on the so-called "Mansfield Amendment" to end the war. Finally, compromise language was adopted which states that it is the sense of Congress that the United States terminate at the earliest practicable date all U.S. military operations in Indochina and withdraw all U.S. forces at a date certain subject to the release of American prisoners of war and an accounting of all Americans missing in action.

To carry out this objective, the provision urges the establishment by negotiation of an immediate cease fire. The House considered and approved the draft bill Conference Report on Wednesday. The Senate still has not acted.

On Monday, the House passed a Joint Resolution concerning the war powers of the Congress and the President. The measure was presented as a reaffirmation of the constitutional power of Congress to declare war while recognizing that the President has the authority to defend United States' interests in emergency situations without prior Congressional authorization.

When the President commits U.S. forces to combat or substantially enlarges U.S. military forces in a foreign nation without prior Congressional authorization, he must submit to Congress in writing the reasons for his action and the constitutional, legislative or treaty provisions under which he acted and state his reasons for not seeking prior Congressional approval.

justifiable to meet the increased cost of acquiring and maintaining lands used for the conservation of migratory game birds.

By a close record vote of 200 yeas to 192 nays, the House passed legislation amending the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961. The bill authorizes the appropriation of $1.37 billion in economic assistance and $2.02 billion in military assistance to foreign nations for the present fiscal year. It also authorizes $3.5 billion in foreign aid for next year.

Of the numerous amendments offered on the House floor, those receiving the most attention were: an amendment that strengthens the sections dealing with narcotics, and language placing Congress on record as opposing any further aid to Greece until it holds democratic elections and on Pakistan until its tragic Civil War ends.

Since my election to Congress, I have consistently opposed this type of foreign aid legislation because of the great expense to the taxpayer and the limited international benefits it has brought to the United States. Therefore, on Tuesday, I again voted against the foreign aid bill.

Asks Elimination Of Lie Detector

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The deputy director of the Ohio Department of Insurance said Monday he wants an insurance company that asks some policyholders to take a "lie detector" test to drop that practice.

"I think this is an invasion of privacy," E. E. Eckert said. "There's a question of legality here as to whether the insurance company can give those tests."

The firm, Universal Underwriters Insurance Co., with headquarters in Kansas City, Mo., has for about a year asked motorcycle owners reporting their vehicles stolen to take polygraph tests when filing their claims, a spokesman said.

Gorges Are Dark

MONTROSE, Colo. (AP) — The bottom of Black Canyon gorge is dark except at mid-day — its walls rising 1,730 to 2,425 feet above the Gunnison river and separated in places by only 1,300 feet.

The shortest meeting ever held by the U. S. Senate is said to have lasted only 14 seconds. We know some slow talkers whom it would take longer than that just to say: "Meeting's adjourned!"

Cool weather fanned into the Central Plains and Midwest today bringing thunderstorms and high winds to some sections of the midcontinent.

A tornado swirled through Jenkins, Minn., during the night, but no injuries or damage were reported.

A powerful wind and rain storm buffeted central North Dakota Monday, blowing 20 cars of a Burlington Northern freight train off the track near Jamestown, N.D. Wind gusts up to 85 miles an hour flipped over a twin-engine airplane at the Jamestown Airport and also overturned several mobile homes.

Fair skies and warm weather prevailed elsewhere, except for some scattered showers along the Gulf Coast.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 47 at Laramie, Wyo., to 98 at Needles, Calif.

Oxford Fire Claims One

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — A major fire in the downtown business district Monday took the life of the Hamilton deputy fire chief, critically injured two other firemen and caused an estimated $200,000 damages to three business establishments in a building complex.

Deputy Chief Joseph Stanley Meyer, 53, a member of the Hamilton, Ohio, fire department since 1939, died shortly after the second and third story front wall of a building collapsed on him and three other firemen at about 2:30 p. m.

He was assisting Oxford firemen with a Hamilton unit when the fire, thought to be under control, rekindled.

Hamilton fireman Jack Baker, 26, and Oxford fireman Louis Francis Murphy, 28, of Hamilton, both continued in critical condition at Cincinnati's Christ Hospital.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Kay Medford, who has been in show business all her life, is having a new theatrical experience: trying to figure out Dean Martin's method.

"It is absolutely fantastic," the veteran Broadway and Hollywood actress said. "This year, you know, we have our little stock company in the show—we're starting 10 and 12 minute sketches to see how they work. We've been rehearsing and learning our lines all week. On Friday, Dean comes in and says, 'Hello, what are we doing today?' He has the cards to read of course, but somehow he manages to move smoothly around the stage in traffic jams of people and — incredible — he reads the cards the first time with the right expression. I don't know how he pulls it off, but the fact that he is so obviously reading the cards manages to heighten the comedy effect."

Miss Medford's long experience in Broadway musical comedy—she won a Tony a few years back as Barbra Streisand's mother in "Funny Face"—pays off in her dry, casual way with a comedy line. She obviously feels that she is back in familiar territory as a feature regular on Martin's show. Her previous television outing was a disappointment in which her special talents and uninhibited Bronx accents were never used.

"They wanted me in 'To Rome, With Love,' although I had not been in the pilot," she said. "I was cast as John Forsythe's sister. So I leased a house, got a car and even brought my dog out here. Three months after I was on my way home—thank God I hadn't done anything about getting rid of my apartment in New York."

"But this time I'm living in a hotel—month by month."

Miss Medford was switched out and Walter Brennan in as they tried to bolster "To Rome" but it never got off the ground.

The Martin assignment started with a one-shot last season when Miss Medford called in to play the proud mother of Dean's accompanist, white-haired Ken Lane. The jokes went so well that more bits were done on the same theme.

Doing the sketches takes a little homework.

"To tell the truth," Miss Medford confessed, "I've been watching a lot of television lately to help me understand some of the jokes. I just didn't get some of the references. The other morning I got up at 7 so I could look at Ralph Nader and find out what he does. Actually, I just like to go to the theater out here, and then come home and look at old movies."

MRS. ROBERT E. ADKINS II

Marriage Vows Are Solemnized Before Altar Of Lutheran Church

Miss Marsha Lynn Brobst, daughter of Mrs. Lois E. Brobst, 1130 Atwater Ave., became the bride of Mr. Robert E. Adkins II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Adkins, 238 E. Main St., Saturday, Aug. 7 in Trinity Lutheran Church. The Rev. Carl G. Zehner performed the double ring ceremony 2:30 p.m. before the altar adorned with vases of white pompons, gladiolus, yellow sweetheart roses and daisies.

A half hour of music was presented by Mrs. Thomas Downing, organist and Mr. Richard Fisher, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the service.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. John F. Brobst. She selected for her wedding a white silk organza A-line gown with a high neckline, sheer yoke and bishop sleeves. The gown was enhanced with peau d'ange lace, white satin ribbon and detachable chapel length sweep train edged in matching lace. The bride's veil of imported English illusion flowed the full length of her train. She wore the traditional talisman wedding pin of her sorority, Tau Epsilon Mu, and carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis, yellow sweetheart roses and miniature white carnations.

Mrs. William Gibson served her sister as matron of honor in a mint green nylon dotted Swiss formal length gown with an empire waist, white lace trim and long full sleeves. She carried a bouquet of white miniature carnations, yellow sweetheart roses and mums. Bridesmaids, Miss Amy Luek of Marathon Shores, Fla., a sorority sister of the bride; Miss Jane Holford, Los Altos, Calif., a college roommate and Miss Connie Bowers of Circleville were gownned as the honor attendant and carried bouquets of yellow daisy mums and white carnations. ## Steel Production Sliced In Half

NEW YORK (AP) — Steel production plunged 51.8 per cent last week in the largest single weekly drop since the 1959 steel strike, the American Iron and Steel Institute reports.

Production declined one million tons from the preceding week to 947,000. In 1959, production fell 1.2 million tons during the week ended July 18, the third day of the strike.

Industry sources attributed the current drop to stockpiling by steel users in anticipation of a strike. Agreement between steel companies and the United Steelworkers of America averted a walkout.

Steel Production Sliced In Half

NEW YORK (AP) — Steel production plunged 51.8 per cent last week in the largest single weekly drop since the 1959 steel strike, the American Iron and Steel Institute reports.

Production declined one million tons from the preceding week to 947,000. In 1959, production fell 1.2 million tons during the week ended July 18, the third day of the strike.

Industry sources attributed the current drop to stockpiling by steel users in anticipation of a strike. Agreement between steel companies and the United Steelworkers of America averted a walkout.

Egypt Envoys Called Home For Meeting

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt has called home its diplomatic representatives from Washington, Moscow and the United Nations for "important consultations" on Middle East questions, it was reported today.

Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad will lead the sessions with U.N. Ambassador Hassan el Zayatt, Moscow Ambassador Murad Ghaled and Ashraf Ghbal, who heads the Egyptian interests section of the Indian Embassy in Washington.

No further details were available, but the talks appeared aimed at planning for the opening of the U.N. General Assembly next month.

Over the weekend Cairo newspapers said Egypt may take the Middle East conflict back to the United Nations because the United States has failed in its efforts to bring about an interim peace settlement.

The Cairo weekly Rose A Youssef reported Monday that the United States is doing its best to stop Egypt from doing this.

President Anwar Sada has set Sunday as a deadline for the United States "to clearly define its stand" in the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Kremlin leaders were reported to have sent a special message to Sadat amid signs of tension in what until recently have been amicable Soviet-Arab relations.

The Soviet message, according to the semi-official newspaper Al Ahram, was delivered Monday to the Egyptian presidential affairs minister Mohamed Ahmed, by the Soviet charge d'affaires in Cairo. Ambassador Vladimir Vinogradov is currently "vacationing" in Moscow, according to the paper's report.

Strike Grips Cemeteries

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The once well-manicured rolling green hillside cemeteries of Colma have turned into a strikebound brown wasteland since greenskeepers and gravediggers walked off their jobs more than nine weeks ago.

Colma, a town of 500 just south of San Francisco that makes its living by burying 10,000 people each year, has seen its 13 cemeteries become overgrown by weeds and littered with trash.

"It's no good," said Ernest Martens, who is trying to keep his wife's grave green. "I am sorry. Once first class, now look, all around."

Martens' work was like an emerald isle in a sea of brown grass.

"When the strike is over, they'll have to reseed the whole cemetery," said Miguel Irizarry, who was watering a neat hedge-trimmed plot.

San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto called a meeting today between representatives of the 235-member Cemetery Workers Union and operators of Colma's cemeteries.

-sounding disc jockey who called himself Fat Sam. He was to be forgiven his nervousness.

"Fat Sam" was Sam Massell Jr., 43, who was elected mayor of Atlanta a year and a half ago. Massell, saying it sounded like fun, had accepted the invitation of the station to play disc jockey.

The mayor spun records for an hour, giving one this introduction:

"Now, just to prove I don't have any hangups, here's Jesus Christ, Superstar."

Massell is the first Jewish mayor of Atlanta.

The radio bit raised few eyebrows in Atlanta, for Massell works at projecting a youthful, fun-loving image which he feels is in tune with the city.

"I don't think he minds being referred to as sort of a John Lindsay-South," said a young aide, referring to New York City's mayor.

"I cut up a lot," said Massell in an interview, "because I believe I have a right to be a human. But being a mayor is a serious business. I say this is where the action is, but it is also where the responsibility is."

Despite his showmanship, Massell is regarded by many of his fellow mayors as a thoughtful analyst of urban ills. Massive doses of federal aid, he says, can solve only the most obvious problems of the cities, such as transportation.

Massell is a short man—5 feet 6—whose dark curly hair is receding in front. He sports modish sideburns and favors sharply tailored suits and colorful wide ties.

Not surprisingly, Massell has become one of the city's most controversial mayors. Along the way he has made many friends, particularly among Atlanta's younger residents, and some enemies. Admirers speak of him as the type of mayor who will rescue the nation's cities. His enemies think not.

A Democrat and admirer of the late President John F. Kennedy, Massell ran as a declared liberal against Atlanta's establishment in 1969.

A coalition of labor, low-income whites and blacks, with the help of the city's few liberals, gave Massell his victory. Massell was credited with forging a new kind of politics in Atlanta.

The winning coalition in the past had always been composed of blacks and upper income whites.

Like other big cities, Atlanta has a pollution problem and is strangling on its ever-increasing traffic; whites are deserting Atlanta for the suburbs, leaving the city predominantly black (51 per cent of the population); the crime rate is high and drugs are a growing problem, and the city has its fair share of poverty and racial unrest.

By CARL H. MADDEN, CHIEF ECONOMIST
Chamber of Commerce of the United States

DURING THE DECADE of the 1960s, total employment in the U.S. rose from 65.8 million to 78.6 million, an increase of almost 20 per cent. In contrast, the number of government employees rose even more—by 50 per cent—from 8.3 million to 12.6 million, with most of this increase in state and local governments. Federal employment, as a per cent of total work force, dropped slightly, from 3.5 per cent to 3.4 per cent. State and local employment, on the other hand, jumped from 12.7 per cent to 16 per cent of the work force. The reason is simple: As society has become more urbanized and population has concentrated in the cities and suburbs with all the transportation, health, education, crime, welfare and pollution problems that accompany such population concentration, greater demands for public services are imposed on states and localities.

olic Ardoyne area burned as their occupants fled, clutching some possessions in their arms and loading furniture onto trucks and automobiles.

A terrorist machine-gunner opened up on the stream of refugees, and a woman, a young boy and a baby were carried off bleeding.

It appeared that the Protestants had fired their own houses in a "scorched earth" retreat to prevent them falling into Catholic hands.

"We heard the Catholics were coming tonight—they're not getting our homes," said one man as he fled under covering fire from British troops.

The soldiers traded fire with Republicans, pouring shots into another Protestant street near the Catholic Ballymurphy district. It was here that Father Hugh Mullan, 30, died, but it was not known whether he was hit by the army or an insurgent.

Other gun battles erupted in the Springfield, Falls Road and Crumlin district of West Belfast, and the violence spread to other cities in the province.

In Londonderry, Northern Ireland's second city, 11 soldiers were wounded in 15 hours of fighting.

Soldiers were rushed by helicopter to Newry, 30 miles south of Belfast, to quell mobs attacking stores and offices. Several buildings went up in flames.

According to the report of Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Don Thompson, the McMahon auto was northbound on the Circleville - Groveport Road and skidded through the stop sign at Route 752.

Mrs. Fobair's attorney, Walter McLin II of Leesburg, Fla., said Florida has authorized the courts to consider individual cases and approve property sales of less than $5,000.

"The law also gives the courts authority to approve the sale of property valued over $5,000, allowing them to maintain control of the assets for the protection of the absentee," McLin said. "Our law is better than the power of attorney because it gives the men some protection, too."

Yet, so long as the war remains undeclared and unresolved, the legal waters will be muddy, and some of the stickier questions remain unanswered.

In sending the bill to the national Assembly for discussion and vote under emergency procedures, Thieu said "the bill lays emphasis on rehabilitation of addicts," those considered the victims of drug dealers.

Phone Rate Hike Plan Draws Fire

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

City officials at Cleveland, Dayton and Columbus reacted quickly against an Ohio Bell Telephone Co. proposal to hike rates by as much as 38 per cent. Dayton officials promised an "aggressive examination" and "friendly investigation" of the proposed rates.

Cleveland City Council President Anthony Garolli charged the proposal was an attempt to "gouge the public."

Columbus Utilities Director William Brooks initiated a letter writing campaign to enlist other cities in opposition to the rate hike.

Rep. George E. Mastic, R-52 Cleveland, said Ohio Bell is seeking a hike of "monumental proportions" and charged the company is preparing for this one while arguing for a rate increase granted April 1, 1970.

That increase gave Ohio Bell $54.8 million in additional gross annual income.

The new proposal seeks an additional $83 million annually after taxes. The proposal would affect phone rates in the 470 communities Ohio Bell serves as well as increasing installation costs and rates for maintenance.

Dayton Mayor James H. McGee says he favors hiring a law firm to investigate the rate proposal and to represent the city when the matter reaches a public hearing before the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio. Other Dayton commissioners agreed with McGee and Whitney Shartzer, acting Dayton city manager, said he had notified the phone company of impending city action.

"It's the wrong time for that kind of increase," McGee said. "I'm inclined to oppose it at this time."

was presented to the National Assembly "with a view to preserving public health with an ultimate end of saving the race."

"The present bill," he said in a statement, "evidences the determination of the Republic of Vietnam to eradicate the narcotics evil which is spreading at such a rate that is becoming a danger for mankind."

Thieu said the bill covers control of intoxicants, narcotics, opium, heroin and other dangerous drugs.

"In addition to increasing the penalties provided in the existing laws," Thieu said, "the present bill prescribes several new sanctions, especially harsh for people who peddle, import and illegally hoard narcotics—these people being considered as seeking to poison other people."

"The death penalty shall be ruled if the offender belongs to an organized group. The bill also provides for a special procedure to bring the case to court for urgent trial, as is the case for wartime crimes."

Meanwhile, the U.S. Command in Saigon announced that it is changing its policy of medical evacuation of all confirmed GI heroin users to insure complete followup treatment.

Chappaquiddick D.A. Enters Mayoral Race

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — The former district attorney who conducted the state's case against Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in the death of Mary Jo Kopechne is a candidate for mayor of New Bedford.

Edmund Dinis, 46, said Monday he would campaign against "excessive taxes, unemployment and crime in the streets."

Dinis, defeated in a re-election bid for district attorney last year, was the state's top legal officer for Massachusetts' southern district when Miss Kopechne, 28, died in Kennedy's car after it plunged from a bridge into a tidal pond on Chappaquiddick Island in July 1969.

The Massachusetts senator admitted he was driving at the time of the accident and pleaded guilty to leaving the scene. He received a suspended two-month jail sentence.

Dinis sought an inquest, which was held later. Dinis has maintained that his re-election defeat resulted from the Chappaquiddick incident.

Under the new policy all confirmed hard drug users will be flown to the United States on military planes after they undergo detoxification at Cam Ranh Bay on South Vietnam's central coast.

Previously only patients who showed symptoms of advanced drug addiction and severe withdrawal were flown for further treatment to the United States on military aircraft.

Tarkenton Jumps Giants Over Salary

By ALEX SACHARE

Associated Press Sports Writer

Pro football lost its second glamor quarterback in less than 48 hours Monday afternoon, when New York Giants signal-caller Fran Tarkenton left the club and returned to his Atlanta home because he could not reach a contract agreement with owner Wellington T. Mara.

"I can't play football without a contract," Tarkenton said Monday night. "Nothing else is involved except the contract. I cannot accept the offer they made me."

Tarkenton, 31, reportedly earned $100,000 in 1970, when he led the Giants to a 9-5 season, their best since 1963.

Tarkenton joins New York Jets' quarterback Joe Namath on the sidelines. Namath continued to recuperate at New York's Lenox Hill Hospital following surgery Sunday morning to repair torn ligaments and remove damaged cartilage in his left knee.

Dr. James A. Nicholas, the Jets' team physician and the orthopedist who has performed all four of Namath's knee operations, speculated that Namath might be able to return to action for the Jets' game against the Baltimore Colts Nov. 14.

"It's earlier than we'd like him back," Dr. Nicholas said. "The longer you give a thing like this, the better it will be in the long run."

"But if our game with the Colts on the 14th is a must type of thing, I don't think there would be any way of keeping Joe out of it."

Tarkenton could be back on the playing field long before Nov. 14. He emphasized that he is by no means retiring. "I didn't care to play the exhibition season without a contract," he declared.

Does he want to play football this year?

"I wouldn't have gone to camp if I didn't," he replied.

Mara, the Giants' owner, revealed that Tarkenton had asked for "a high, six-figure loan" for his various business and philanthropic enterprises as part of his contract.

"The loan is the real stumbling block," Mara said at a news conference in Houston. "I tried to work it out, but my legal advisers told me there was no way we could do it."

Dodgers' Spurt Cuts Into Giants' Lead

By BERT ROSENTHAL

Associated Press Sports Writer

Twenty years ago Wednesday, the New York Giants trailed the Brooklyn Dodgers by 13 1/2 games in the race for the National League pennant. The Giants then reeled off 13 consecutive victories and eventually beat the Dodgers 5-4 on Bobby Thomson's dramatic three-run homer in the ninth inning of the third game of a three-game playoff.

Today, the roles—and the teams' locations—are different. The Dodgers, now playing in Los Angeles, are in second place... but they are moving up fast on the fading Giants of San Francisco.

Monday night, the Dodgers sliced San Francisco's National League West lead to 4 1/2 games—the smallest margin since July 7—with a 6-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals league game Monday, an American League afternoon contest, the Boston Red Sox outslugged the Detroit Tigers 12-11.

The Dodgers, who have trimmed the Giants lead in half since falling nine games back on Aug. 1, blasted Cardinal pitching for 15 hits, including four each by Wes Parker and Willie Davis.

The Dodgers, one of the few teams to hold a lifetime edge over Gibson, pounded the Cards' ace for 14 hits in seven innings in beating him for the third straight time this season and the 20th time in 34 career decisions.

Parker doubled following a Cardinal error in the second inning, before Duke Sims belted a two-run double. After the Cards tied it on Dal Maxvill's two-run single in the bottom of the second, the Dodgers again took a two-run lead in the third on singles by Bill Buckner, Davis, Willie Crawford and Parker.

Davis singled home a run in the fourth, and Parker doubled in the seventh and scored the final Los Angeles run on a single by Al Downing. The Cards added a run in the third, and Ted Sizemore singled in two more runs in the eighth before Jim Brewer came in and preserved Downing's 14th victory.

Richie Allen was a late scratch from the Dodger lineup for the second time this season. Allen, the club leader in runs batted in, overslept and didn't get to the ballpark until the start of the game.

Rico Petrocelli, making his first pinch hitting appearance of the season after being given a rest, capped the wild Boston-Detroit slugfest with a run-scoring single in the ninth inning. The hit was the 33rd in the game and scored John Kennedy, who had doubled.

Rookie catcher Bob Montgomery drove in six Boston runs with a two-run double in the second and his first major league grand slam homer during an eight-run fourth.

Detroit's Bill Freehan drilled three solo homers, Willie Horton smashed two homers and drove in five runs, and Aurelio Rodriguez cracked a solo homer.

The game was enlivened by a melee in the sixth inning when Detroit reliever Bill Denney hit Boston outfielder Reggie Smith with a pitch on his back just below the right shoulder. The two exchanged words as Smith headed towards first base, with Freehan, the Detroit catcher, standing between them. Then, Smith threw a punch over Freehan's shoulder that just missed Denney, causing both dugouts and bullpens to empty. But there was no further trouble.

Reds Are Out, Sparky Agrees

By BOB FIRESTONE JR.

Associated Press Writer

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds manager Sparky Anderson feels that if his team is to win the pennant this year, it would take "a complete miracle."

"Everything would have to go," said Anderson. "I would say truthfully we're going to try to win every single game we can win this year. We would like to end up as high as we can end up."

"Now, if fifth is as high up as we're going to end up, that's going to be because that's the best we were this year. To me it would be a successful year if we could end up second or third."

The Reds, currently in fifth place with a 54-63 record in the Western Division of the National League, are 13 1/2 games behind the division-leading San Francisco Giants.

Scott Wins Corner Post

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Clarence Scott appears to have won the left cornerback job with the Cleveland Browns' regular defensive unit on the basis of his showing in the opening exhibition against the San Francisco 49ers.

Scott was pressed into action Sunday soon after the 49ers' Gene Washington outran veteran Erich Barnes and caught a pass for a touchdown on the fourth play of the game.

Washington caught a pass for a touchdown against Scott, but the rookie managed to tip the ball and he intercepted another pass intended for Washington.

In addition to those two plays, the Browns' No. 1 draft choice lived up to expectations in the way of speed, reflexes and tackling ability.

Scott doesn't go along with complaints of some participants that the Coaches All-America and the College All-Star games hurt the chances of good pro prospects.

He played as a regular in both games and says he believes that they helped him gain poise and confidence.

Tarkenton Jumps Giants Over Salary

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer
Pro football lost its second glamor quarterback in less than 48 hours Monday afternoon, when New York Giants signal-caller Fran Tarkenton left the club and returned to his Atlanta home because he could not reach a contract agreement with owner Wellington T. Mara. "I can't play football without a contract," Tarkenton said Monday night. "Nothing else is involved except the contract. I cannot accept the offer they made me."

Tarkenton, 31, reportedly earned $100,000 in 1970, when he led the Giants to a 9-5 season, their best since 1963.

Tarkenton joins New York Jets' quarterback Joe Namath on the sidelines. Namath continued to recuperate at New York's Lenox Hill Hospital following surgery Sunday morning to repair torn ligaments and remove damaged cartilage in his left knee.

Dr. James A. Nicholas, the Jets' team physician and the orthopedist who has performed all four of Namath's knee operations, speculated that Namath might be able to return to action for the Jets' game against the Baltimore Colts Nov. 14.

"It's earlier than we'd like him back," Dr. Nicholas said. "The longer you give a thing like this, the better it will be in the long run."

"But if our game with the Colts on the 14th is a must type of thing, I don't think there would be any way of keeping Joe out of it."

Tarkenton could be back on the playing field long before Nov. 14. He emphasized that he is by no means retiring. "I didn't care to play the exhibition season without a contract," he declared.

Does he want to play football this year?

"I wouldn't have gone to camp if I didn't," he replied.

Mara, the Giants' owner, revealed that Tarkenton had asked for "a high, six-figure loan" for his various business and philanthropic enterprises as part of his contract.

"The loan is the real stumbling block," Mara said at a news conference in Houston. "I tried to work it out, but my legal advisers tell me there was no way we could do it."

Dodgers' Spurt Cuts Into Giants' Lead

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer
Twenty years ago Wednesday, the New York Giants trailed the Brooklyn Dodgers by 13½ games in the race for the National League pennant. The Giants then reeled off 13 consecutive victories and eventually beat the Dodgers 5-4 on Bob Thomson's dramatic three-run homer in the ninth inning of the third game of a three-game playoff.

Today, the roles—and the teams' locations—are different. The Dodgers, now playing in Los Angeles, are in second place... but they are moving up fast on the fading Giants of San Francisco.

Monday night, the Dodgers sliced San Francisco's National League West lead to 4½ games—the smallest margin since July 7—with a 6-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals league game Monday, an American League (afternoon contest, the Boston Red Sox outslugged the Detroit Tigers 12-11.

The Dodgers, who have trimmed the Giants lead in half since falling nine games back on Aug. 1, blasted Cardinal pitching for 15 hits, including four each by Wes Parker and Willie Davis.

The Dodgers, one of the few teams to hold a lifetime edge over Gibson, pounded the Cards' ace for 14 hits in seven innings in beating him for the third straight time this season and the 20th time in 34 career decisions.

Parker doubled following a Cardinal error in the second inning, before Duke Sims belted a two-run double. After the Cards tied it on Dal Maxvill's two-run single in the bottom of the second, the Dodgers again took a two-run lead in the third on singles by Bill Buckner, Davis, Willie Crawford and Parker.

Davis singled home a run in the fourth, and Parker doubled in the seventh and scored the final Los Angeles run on a single by Al Downing. The Cards added a run in the third, and Ted Sizemore singled in two more runs in the eighth before Jim Brewer came in and preserved Downing's 14th victory.

Richie Allen was a late scratch from the Dodger lineup for the second time this season. Allen, the club leader in runs batted in, overslept and didn't get to the ballpark until the start of the game.

Rico Petrocelli, making his first pinch hitting appearance of the season after being given a rest, capped the wild Boston-Detroit slugfest with a run-scoring single in the ninth inning. The hit was the 33rd in the game and scored John Kennedy, who had doubled.

Rookie catcher Bob Montgomery drove in six Boston runs with a two-run double in the second and his first major league grand slam homer during an eight-run fourth.

Detroit's Bill Freehan drilled three solo homers, Willie Horton smashed two homers and drove in five runs, and Aurelio Rodriguez cracked a solo homer.

The game was enlivened by a melee in the sixth inning when Detroit reliever Bill Denehy hit Boston outfielder Reggie Smith with a pitch on his back just below the right shoulder. The two exchanged words as Smith headed towards first base, with Freehan, the Detroit catcher, standing between them. Then, Smith threw a punch over Freehan's shoulder that just missed Denehy, causing both dugouts and bullpens to empty. But there was no further trouble.

Reds Are Out, Sparky Agrees

By BOB FIRESTONE JR.
Associated Press Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds manager Sparky Anderson feels that if his team is to win the pennant this year, it would take "a complete miracle."

"Everything would have to go," said Anderson. "I would say truthfully we're going to try to win every single game we can win this year. We would like to end up as high as we can end up."

"Now, if fifth is as high up as we're going to end up, that's going to be because that's the best we were this year. To me it would be a successful year if we could end up second or third."

The Reds, currently in fifth place with a 54-63 record in the Western Division of the National League, are 13 1-2 games behind the division-leading San Francisco Giants, and should they be able to win the pennant they would have to duplicate a feat accomplished in 1951, when the Giants were the New York Giants.

On Aug. 11, 1951, the Giants were 13 1-2 games behind the Brooklyn Dodgers, then won 13 games in a row and eventually beat the Dodgers, 5-4, on a dramatic, three-run homer by Bobby Thomson in the last game of a three-game playoff for the flag.

Despite the Reds' dismal performance in 1971, there have been some outstanding performances on the Club—the hitting of Lee May, who has 32 homers; the pitching of Don Gullett, who has a 12-4 record; and the strong relief pitching of Clay Carroll and Joe Gibbon, who have 10 wins and 21 saves between them.

Yet Anderson said it perturbs him that his club—which finished 14 1-2 games ahead of the Los Angeles Dodgers and beat the Pittsburgh Pirates in a playoff for the pennant in 1970—is seemingly mired in fifth place.

"It hurts you," said Anderson. "You know not only yourself but that other people know you know this is a better ball club. But things that happen show you that you can put anything down on paper and say well, this is the best."

"But when it gets out there, unforeseen things happen that you didn't think would happen—like Johnny Bench hitting .230 or something. It's like dreaming I'd be a millionaire. I don't think you could feel this would happen."

How did Anderson feel the Reds would do in 1972?

"I think there's only one thing we can do," he said. "We have to win it next year. Now, we must leave spring training with only one thing—to open and go wire to wire and win it."

The Reds play the Houston Astros tonight and Wednesday night, are idle Thursday, then play the Chicago Cubs Friday night in the first game of a three-game series.

Scott Wins Corner Post

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Clarence Scott appears to have won the left cornerback job with the Cleveland Browns' regular defensive unit on the basis of his showing in the opening exhibition against the San Francisco 49ers.

Scott was pressed into action Sunday soon after the 49ers' Gene Washington outran veteran Erich Barnes and caught a pass for a touchdown on the fourth play of the game.

Washington caught a pass for a touchdown against Scott, but the rookie managed to tip the ball and he intercepted another pass intended for Washington.

In addition to those two plays, the Browns' No. 1 draft choice lived up to expectations in the way of speed, reflexes and tackling ability.

Scott doesn't go along with complaints of some participants that the Coaches All-America and the College All-Star games hurt the chances of good prospects.

He played as a regular in both games and says he believes that they helped him gain poise and confidence.

Seven-Game Card Kicks Off Legion Baseball Tourney

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP) — Ash-ta-bula was to go against Wadsworth, Kent faced Pomeroy and Cincinnati Budde was to meet Euclid this morning in the second round of play at the Ohio American Legion Baseball Tournament.

The six, along with Lima, were losers in the opening round of play Monday at Ashland College.

At 1 p.m. Monday's winners Ashley and Piqua were to come together, while winning Wintersville-Richmond was to take on Lima and Hillsboro was to meet Cambridge. Worthington and Archbold, also first-round winners, were to meet at 3:30 p.m.

The state champion will be determined Saturday from the field of 14 American Legion teams in the tournament.

In Monday action Archbold produced the biggest offensive spurt of the day in an 18-3 romp over Lima in night play. Archbold players Joe Mayer and Rod Bostelman led the hit parade with four apiece with Dick Selgo and Ray Leited adding three more each.

The closest contest Monday ended in a Cambridge victory over Pomeroy 6-5 thanks to two runs in the bottom of the ninth. Mike Porter drove in two runs with a single but one was invalidated, he later scored the winning run from first base.

Hillsboro scored all five of its runs in the first four innings of afternoon play to topple Cincinnati Budde 5-1. Winning pitcher Kip Young helped his own cause with eight hits.

In the third afternoon game Worthington slipped by Euclid

5-4 with a single by Mark Harbert sending Tim Riggs home to clinch the victory in the eighth inning.

Morning victories went to Ashley, Richmond and Piqua.

Ashley downed Wadsworth 13-8 thanks to the pitching and hitting of Randy Codial, who collected two hits, scored three runs and fanned 17 batters.

Catcher Dennis Dickensheets blasted two home runs as Piqua defeated Kent 12-2 behind the five-hit pitching of Jeff Price.

Wintersville-Richmond played errorless ball en route to a 6-4 triumph over Ash-ta-bula. The losers scored two runs in the first and last innings but stranded three base runners in the ninth inning.

Lee Trevino Is 'Good' After Surgery

SEQUENCES, N. M. (AP) — Golfer Lee Trevino was reported in good condition today after undergoing an emergency appendectomy performed at St. Anne's Hospital here.

Trevino, professional golf's lead money winner this year, was stricken Monday evening after returning from Socorro where he held a clinic at the New Mexico Junior PGA Tournament.

The operation was performed by Dr. D. E. Stoops of Truth Or Consequences, and Dr. Leonard R. Becker of Albuquerque. Surgery began about 2:30 a.m., ED, and lasted about 1½ hours.

"He's doing very well. He tolerated surgery very well," Dr. Stoops commented early today. He said Trevino would be hospitalized about one week.

The El Paso, Tex., native was visiting the area to do some fishing but took the time to give some instructions to the young golfers.

Trevino has won $197,219 in PGA events this year, and also captured the United States, British and Canadian Open titles. He won the three tournaments within a period of four weeks.

Since the British event, his playing has been off and just two weeks ago failed to make the cut at the Westchester Classic in New York. At that time he said he was tired and planned on taking a short rest which included some plans to spend time fishing.

McDowell Set To Face White Sox

CHICAGO (AP) — Just as suddenly as he was gone, Sud-den Sam McDowell is back.

The tall Cleveland left-hander, noted for his blazing fast ball, was back in an Indians' uniform for the first time in over a week Monday at the Hall of Fame exhibition game in Cooperstown, N.Y., where the Indians beat the Chicago Cubs 13-5.

And tonight he will be back at his accustomed spot, starting on the mound for the Indians against the Chicago White Sox.

The 29-year-old McDowell left the club July 31 following a dispute over Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's elimination of bonus clauses in McDowell's contract. The Indians then suspended the 20-game winner of last year who is 10-10 this season.

"He looks all right," said Indians Manager Johnny Lipon, who watched McDowell throw on the sidelines for an hour, then named him a starter for tonight's game.

McDowell flew to Cooperstown from Cleveland with club president Gabe Paul. Paul had announced Saturday that McDowell had agreed to his 1972 contract and his star pitcher would not go to court over his 1971 contract as earlier indicated.

Seven-Game Card Kicks Off Legion Baseball Tourney

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP) — Ashland was to go against Wadsworth, Kent faced Pomeroy and Cincinnati Budde was to meet Euclid this morning in the second round of play at the Ohio American Legion Baseball Tournament.

The six, along with Lima, were losers in the opening round of play Monday at Ashland College.

At 1 p.m. Monday's winners Ashley and Piqua were to come together, while winning Wintersville-Richmond was to take on Lima and Hillsboro was to meet Cambridge. Worthington and Archbold, also first-round winners, were to meet at 3:30 p.m.

The state champion will be determined Saturday from the field of 14 American Legion teams in the tournament.

In Monday action Archbold produced the biggest offensive spurt of the day in an 18-3 romp over Lima in night play. Archbold players Joe Mayer and Rod Bostelman led the hit parade with four apiece with Dick Selgo and Ray Leited adding three more each.

The closest contest Monday ended in a Cambridge victory over Pomeroy 6-5 thanks to two runs in the bottom of the ninth. Mike Porter drove in two runs with a single but one was invalidated, he later scored the winning run from first base.

Hillsboro scored all five of its runs in the first four innings of afternoon play to topple Cincinnati Budde 5-1. Winning pitcher Kip Young helped his own cause with eight hits.

In the third afternoon game Worthington slipped by Euclid

5-4 with a single by Mark Harbert sending Tim Riggs home to clinch the victory in the eighth inning.

Morning victories went to Ashley, Richmond and Piqua.

Ashley downed Wadsworth 13-8 thanks to the pitching and hitting of Randy Codial, who collected two hits, scored three runs and fanned 17 batters.

Catcher Dennis Dickensheets blasted two home runs as Piqua defeated Kent 12-2 behind the five-hit pitching of Jeff Price.

Wintersville-Richmond played errorless ball en route to a 6-4 triumph over Ashtabula. The losers scored two runs in the first and last innings but stranded three base runners in the ninth inning.

Turbo Train Tours Nation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high-speed TurboTrain starts a tour of half of the Amtrak system Wednesday said the Department of Transportation. Trains have been operating between Boston and New York for two years, while electric-powered Metroliners have been in use between New York and Washington D. C.

The month-long TurboTrain tour, covering 12,000 miles and 31 states, is intended in part to survey public opinion on improved passenger trains.

Amtrak President Roger Lewis said Monday the public will be invited to inspect the train at terminals along the route and to ride between route points.

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe said the tour "will provide us with a unique test of the durability and ride qualities of the equipment."

Volpe said the trip will start in Providence, R.I., and will continue through New York, Washington, Miami, New Orleans, Atlanta, Houston, Los Angeles, Oakland, Portland, Ore., Seattle, Milwaukee, Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, Cincinnati and Cleveland. A number of smaller cities also are included.

Ex-Congressman Mosier Succumbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Funeral arrangements are pending for Harold G. Mosier, former Congressman and Ohio Lieutenant Governor, who died Saturday in a Washington nursing home at the age of 82.

Mosier, while in the Ohio Senate, was the author of the bill ratifying the repeal of prohibition and also the author of the Ohio liquor control bill.

Mosier, a Democrat, served in the state senate two terms before being elected lieutenant governor in 1934. He served one term in the U.S. House of Representatives from 1937 to 1939.

Lee Trevino Is 'Good' After Surgery

SEQUENCES, N. M. (AP) — Golfer Lee Trevino was reported in good condition today after undergoing an emergency appendectomy performed at St. Anne's Hospital here.

Trevino, professional golfer's lead money winner this year, was stricken Monday evening after returning from Socorro where he held a clinic at the New Mexico Junior PGA Tournament.

The operation was performed by Dr. D. E. Stoops of Truth or Consequences, and Dr. Leonard R. Becker of Albuquerque. Surgery began about 2:30 a.m., ED, and lasted about 1½ hours.

"He's doing very well. He tolerated surgery very well," Dr. Stoops commented early today. He said Trevino would be hospitalized about one week.

The El Paso, Tex., native was visiting the area to do some fishing but took the time to give some instructions to the young golfers.

Trevino has won $197,219 in PGA events this year, and also captured the United States, British and Canadian Open titles. He won the three tournaments within a period of four weeks.

Since the British event, his playing has been off and just two weeks ago failed to make the cut at the Westchester Classic in New York. At that time he said he was tired and planned on taking a short rest which included some plans to spend time fishing.

McDowell Set To Face White Sox

CHICAGO (AP) — Just as suddenly as he was gone, Sudden Sam McDowell is back.

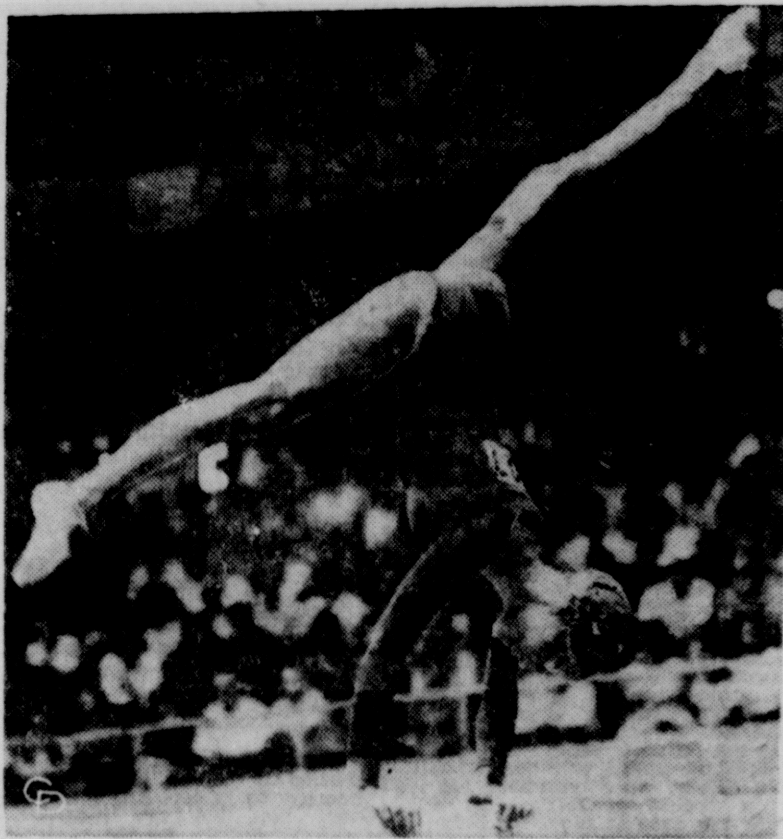

The tall Cleveland left-hander, noted for his blazing fast ball, was back in an Indians' uniform for the first time in over a week Monday at the Hall of Fame exhibition game in Cooperstown, N.Y., where the Indians beat the Chicago Cubs 13-5.

And tonight he will be back at his accustomed spot, starting on the mound for the Indians against the Chicago White Sox.

The 29-year-old McDowell left the club July 31 following a dispute over Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's elimination of bonus clauses in McDowell's contract. The Indians then suspended the 20-game winner of last year who is 10-10 this season.

"He looks all right," said Indians Manager Johnny Lipon, who watched McDowell throw on the sidelines for an hour, then named him a starter for tonight's game.

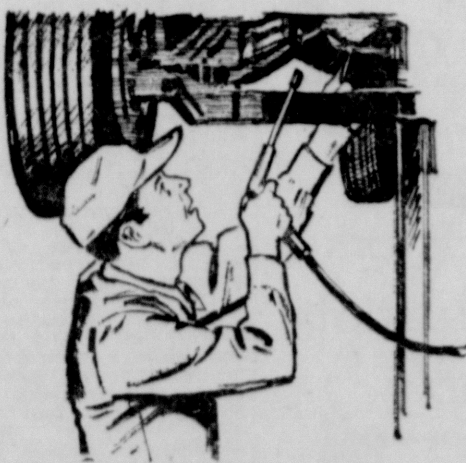

McDowell flew to Cooperstown from Cleveland with club president Gabe Paul. Paul had announced Saturday that McDowell had agreed to his 1972 contract and his star pitcher would not go to court over his 1971 contract as earlier indicated.

The young people of today are the most independent, inquisitive, disbelieving and demanding generation in American history.

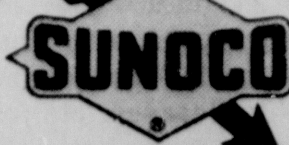

We're proud of the fact that they believe in the honest value of Sunoco Custom Blending

More and more young people these days drive up to a Sunoco Custom Blending Pump, decide which grade is best for a car of the type and age that they own, then say "Fill 'er up." An independent national study showed that Sunoco rates number three in preference with age 18-to-25 Americans—and each of those first two brands has over three times as many stations as Sunoco.

The key to our unusual Custom Blending System is Sunoco 260, the highest octane gasoline sold at any station, anywhere. The Sunoco Custom Blending Pump blends some 260 into every gallon of premium, the three middle premiums, even our regular.

The young people who stop at our pump find that 260 Action can help their engine put out all the performance originally designed into it. And to keep the "action" in 260 Action, we spend millions of dollars every year on product research and quality control. Proof that we succeed is the fact that 260 gasoline now fuels some of the most powerful cars on today's racing circuit.

Stop in at a Sunoco station and get some 260 Action for your car. Remember, the most independent, inquisitive, disbelieving, demanding generation ever believes it's an honest value.

Action to be used, not abused.

Paige Joins Diamond Immortals

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — How good a pitcher was LeRoy "Satchel" Paige in his prime, when the doors to major league baseball were closed to him because his skin was black?

The question lingers in the aftermath of Paige's induction Monday into Baseball's Hall of Fame. And it may never be answered to the satisfaction of all since Paige didn't pitch in the majors until he was 42.

But Frank Forbes, a member of the special committee that elected Paige to the Hall of Fame and the umpire in chief of the Negro league during Paige's prime, offers this estimate of Satchel's ability:

"In his prime he would have been an easy 30-game winner in the majors—easy. It's almost impossible to even think anybody ever was as good."

"When he hooked up on the tour with major leaguers there was no contest. Even Joe DiMaggio and Ted Williams said he was the best. The most amazing thing about him was that he was a smart pitcher. He had everything a pitcher should."

It's a far more subjective judgment than the few statistics on Paige's bronze Hall of Fame plaque, which records his 28-31 won-lost record in the majors but is unable to cite any of his exploits during two decades of Negro league stardom.

But even as the major leagues ignored Paige during his prime, Paige subconsciously returned the snub.

"I didn't have any dreams about Cooperstown," said Paige as he stood hands on hips on the steps of the baseball library at the formal induction ceremonies. And he elaborated afterwards by noting:

"I knew I could throw harder than anyone around until 1942—and that was for 25 years. I had a world of my own. They didn't want me; it didn't make no difference to me."

But Monday made a difference and Paige left no doubt about that when he said:

"I am the proudest man on earth today."

Paige's induction as the first of the pre-1947 stars of the Negro leagues to be elected to the Hall of Fame overshadowed the induction of seven other new members, bringing to 126 the number of baseball immortals enshrined here.

The others inducted were pitcher Rube Marquard, first baseman Jack Beckley, shortstop Dave Bancroft, outfielders Chick Hefey, Harry Hooper and Joe Kelley and longtime executive George Weiss, whose career with the New York Yankees spanned 19 pennant winners.

The ceremonies were followed by the annual Hall of Fame exhibition game matching

Cleveland and the Chicago Cubs in marking Sam McDowell's official return to the Indians as a member in good standing.

Seven Trotters Entered In SD Scarlet And Gray

Seven sophomore trotters will go postward Thursday night at Scioto Downs in the $8,500 Scarlet and Gray cup.

The third event in the four series stake program named to honor athletic greats from Ohio State University, this week will give a special salute to the late Ernie Biggs, head athletic trainer at Ohio State for the past 29 years. The nationally prominent Biggs passed away last Saturday.

Leading the select seven-horse field Thursday night in behind the mobile starting gate is Another Love, owned and driven by Gene Riegler. This bay daughter of Blaze Hanover, has won her last five in a row, and six of her last seven starts. With Riegler at the controls, Another Love took her mark of 2:03.1 at Scioto Downs.

Appropriately, one of the top challengers in the Scarlet and Gray Cup is Rockne, the bay son of Star's Pride, named in honor of the late head coach at Notre Dame University, Knute Rockne. Owned by the Notre Dame alumnus, Joseph Mendelson of Santa Monica, California, Rockne is from the Howard Beissinger stable, currently off to his greatest season. Beissinger's assistant trainer, Mike Zeller will be in game that wrapped up the day's events.

Four homers were hit in the game. Ted Uhlaender hit a solo shot for Cleveland in the third inning and Jim Clark smacked a three-run blast that capped an eight-run uprising for the Indians in the fifth. Ernie Banks and Chris Cannizzaro homered for the Cubs.

The sulky Thursday night behind Rockne who shows 4 wins and 4 seconds in ten starts this year, and a best mile in 2:05.3.

Third choice on the early line goes to Scotch Dart, the bay son of Dartmouth, owned by Gilbert and Alice Noble of Winter Park, Florida. With Dick Williams in the sulky, this sophomore has won four of nine starts this year, and owns a lifetime mark of 2:06.3.

When there is a stake program to be contested, there is usually an entry from the hot-bed of harness racing, Washington C.H., Ohio. And Thursday night is no exception. Mrs. Richard Kelley entered Single Girl, the daughter of Lloyd's Demon, trained and driven by Dick Kelley, Single Girl shows two victories this year.

Demon's Porter, owned and driven by Fred Hess of Jackson, Ohio, Bill Q, the bay son of Chief Long, owned by Jimmy King and Dianna Ensminger of Columbus, and Top Diplomacy, owned and driven by Charles Bond of Hamilton, Ohio, round out the select field of Scarlet and Gray 3-year-old trotters.

Male American Swimmers Smash World Relay Mark

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CALL, Colombia (AP) — The United States' somewhat surprising men's swimming squad, buoyed by a world record performance from its 800-meter freestyle relay team, appeared ready to mop up with a virtual sweep of Pan American gold medals.

With only two events left today and two more on tomorrow's closing program, Uncle Sam's under-rated natators already have grabbed 10 of 11 possible gold medals, the brightest gleaming from last night's world mark smashing by a quartet of swift freestylers, anchored by illustrious Frank Heckl.

Heckl, Southern California star, grabbed his third gold medal as he put the frosting on the cake of a 7:45.8 victory which clipped 2.2 seconds from the one-year-old world record of 7:48.08 by a USA team at Tokyo last Aug. 28.

This was supposed to be a somewhat patchwork USA crew of mermen lacking top stars of NCAA champion Indiana and several other collegiate aces who skipped Cali to concentrate on the National AAU meet this month.

But led by triple gold medal winner Heckl and high school graduate Steve Furniss of Santa Ana, Calif., winner of the 200 and 400 individual medley, and freestyler Jim McConica, Heckl's Trojan teammate, the USA swimmers yielded only one gold medal — to Ecuador's Jorge Delgado in the 200 butterfly.

As the Pan Am program began shrinking nearing Friday's formal closing ceremony, three sports bowed out last night, with the USA's shapely synchronized swimming team from San Francisco completing a sweep of three gold medals, taking the final eight-gal team competition.

The 11-class boxing tournament ended with two gold medal winners among four USA finalists. Duane Bobick, 205-pound Navy quartermaster from Bowling, Minn., stopped Mexico's Manuel Joaquin in the second round. Cincinnati's Ray Russel, 31, Marine staff sergeant outpointed Brazil's Waldemar Paulino De Oliveira for the lightweight crown.

Fencing also wound up last night, with the USA grabbing the team epee gold medal.

Paige Joins Diamond Immortals

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — How good a pitcher was LeRoy "Satchel" Paige in his prime, when the doors to major league baseball were closed to him because his skin was black?

The question lingers in the aftermath of Paige's induction Monday into Baseball's Hall of Fame. And it may never be answered to the satisfaction of all since Paige didn't pitch in the majors until he was 42.

But Frank Forbes, a member of the special committee that elected Paige to the Hall of Fame and the umpire in chief of the Negro league during Paige's prime, offers this estimate of Satchel's ability: "In his prime he would have been an easy 30-game winner in the majors—easy. It's almost impossible to even think anybody ever was as good."

"When he hooked up on the tour with major leaguers there was no contest. Even Joe DiMaggio and Ted Williams said he was the best. The most amazing thing about him was that he was a smart pitcher. He had everything a pitcher should."

It's a far more subjective judgment than the few statistics on Paige's bronze Hall of Fame plaque, which records his 28-31 won-lost record in the majors but is unable to cite any of his exploits during two decades of Negro league stardom.

But even as the major leagues ignored Paige during his prime, Paige subconsciously returned the snub.

"I didn't have any dreams about Cooperstown," said Paige as he stood hands on hips on the steps of the baseball library at the formal induction ceremonies. And he elaborated afterwards by noting:

"I knew I could throw harder than anyone around until 1942—and that was for 25 years. I had a world of my own. They didn't want me; it didn't make no difference to me."

But Monday made a difference, and Paige left no doubt about that when he said: "I am the proudest man on earth today."

Paige's induction as the first of the pre-1947 stars of the Negro leagues to be elected to the Hall of Fame overshadowed the induction of seven other new members, bringing to 126 the number of baseball immortals enshrined here.

The others inducted were pitcher Rube Marquard, first baseman Jake Beckley, shortstop Dave Bancroft, outfielders Chick Hefey, Harry Hooper and Joe Kelley and longtime executive George Weiss, whose career with the New York Yankees spanned 19 pennant winners.

The ceremonies were followed by the annual Hall of Fame exhibition game matching

Cleveland and the Chicago Cubs in marking Sam McDowell's official return to the Indians as a member in good standing.

McDowell threw for about 10 minutes in preparation for his next start either tonight or Wednesday then watched as the Indians whipped the Chicago Cubs 13-5 in the exhibition game that wrapped up the day's events.

Four homers were hit in the game. Ted Uhlaender hit a solo shot for Cleveland in the third inning and Jim Clark smacked a three-run blast that capped an eight-run uprising for the Indians in the fifth. Ernie Banks and Chris Cannizzaro homered for the Cubs.

Seven Trotters Entered In SD Scarlet And Gray

Seven sophomore trotters will go postcard Thursday night at Scioto Downs in the $8,500 Scarlet and Gray cup.

The third event in the four series stake program named to honor athletic greats from Ohio State University, this week will give a special salute to the late Ernie Biggs, head athletic trainer at Ohio State for the past 29 years. The nationally prominent Biggs passed away last Saturday.

Leading the select seven-horse field Thursday night in behind the mobile starting gate is Another Love, owned and driven by Gene Riegler. This bay daughter of Blaze Hanover, has won her last five in a row, and six of her last seven starts. With Riegler at the controls, Another Love took her mark of 2:03.1 at Scioto Downs.

Appropriately, one of the top challengers in the Scarlet and Gray Cup is Rockne, the bay son of Star's Pride, named in honor of the late head coach at Notre Dame University, Knute Rockne. Owned by the Notre Dame alumnus, Joseph Mendelson of Santa Monica, California, Rockne is from the Howard Beissinger stable, currently off to his greatest season. Beissinger's assistant trainer, Mike Zeller will be in the sulky Thursday night behind Rockne who shows 4 wins and 4 seconds in ten starts this year, and a best mile in 2:05.3.

Third choice on the early line goes to Scotch Dart the bay son of Dartmouth, owned by Gilbert and Alice Noble of Winter Park, Florida. With Dick Williams in the sulky, this sophomore has won four of nine starts this year, and owns a lifetime mark of 2:06.3.

When there is a stake program to be contested, there is usually an entry from the hot-bed of harness racing, Washington C.H., Ohio. And Thursday night is no exception. Mrs. Richard Kelley entered Single Girl, the daughter of Lloyd's Demon, trained and driven by Dick Kelley, Single Girl shows two victories this year.

Demon's Porter, owned and driven by Fred Hess of Jackson, Ohio, Bill Q, the bay son of Chief Long, owned by Jimmy King and Dianna Ensminger of Columbus, and Top Diplomacy, owned and driven by Charles Bond of Hamilton, Ohio, round out the select field of Scarlet and Gray 3-year-old trotters.

Male American Swimmers Smash World Relay Mark

By JERRY LISKA

Associated Press Sports Writer
CALI, Colombia (AP) — The United States' somewhat surprising men's swimming squad, buoyed by a world record performance from its 800-meter freestyle relay team, appeared ready to mop up with a virtual sweep of Pan American gold medals.

With only two events left today and two more on tomorrow's closing program, Uncle Sam's under-rated natators already have grabbed 10 of 11 possible gold medals, the brightest gleaming from last night's world mark smashing by a quartet of swift freestylers, anchored by illustrious Frank Heckl.

Heckl, Southern California star, grabbed his third gold medal as he put the frosting on the cake of a 7:45.8 victory which clipped 2.2 seconds from the one-year-old world record of 7:48.08 by a USA team at Tokyo last Aug. 28.

This was supposed to be a somewhat patchwork USA crew of mermen lacking top stars of NCAA champion Indiana and several other collegiate aces who skipped Cali to concentrate on the National AAU meet this month.

But led by triple gold medal winner Heckl and high school graduate Steve Furniss of Santa Ana, Calif., winner of the 200 and 400 individual medley, and freestyler Jim McConica, Heckl's Trojan teammate, the USA swimmers yielded only one gold medal — to Ecuador's Jorge Delgado in the 200 butterfly.

As the Pan Am program began shrinking near Friday's formal closing ceremony, three sports bowed out last night, with the USA's shapely synchronized swimming team from San Francisco completing a sweep of three gold medals, taking the final eight-gal team competition.

The 11-class boxing tournament ended with two gold medal winners among four USA finalists. Duane Bobick, 205-pound Navy quartermaster from Bowlin, Minn., stopped Mexico's Manuel Joaquin in the second round. Cincinnati's Ray Russel, 31, Marine staff sergeant outpointed Brazil's Waldemar Paulino De Oliveira for the lightweight crown.

Fencing also wound up last night, with the USA grabbing the team epee gold medal.

Gary Wolford, Joe Mogan, Brad Allison, and Toren Benson were throwing the ball for BPOE. They gave up four hits, struck out 12 and walked four.

KIWANIS SPEAKER — Glen Easterday (right), speaker at Circleville Kiwanis Club Monday, presents Jim Shea, president, a bayonet in appreciation for the club's outstanding promotion of patriotism and freedom.

Vietnam Veteran Speaker At Circleville Kiwanis Club

Glenn Easterday, a recently discharged chief warrant officer of the United States Army who spent a year and a half in Vietnam, was the speaker at Circleville Kiwanis Club Monday.

Easterday, a 1965 graduate of Circleville High School gave his views of "How It Really Is In Vietnam." He emphasized to Kiwanians that it is a controversial war and statements and opinions were his own.

Easterday said he had great respect for the North Vietnamese soldier, characterizing him as having intelligence and the will to win.

The Kiwanis speaker was an aircraft commander. He was shot down four times and wounded once.

Easterday said that fighting had gone on almost continuously in the country since 200 B.C., noting that the southern people are farmers and northern people industrialists, he predicted the north would take over easily if the United States withdrew its support.

But he said that he personally felt the United States should pull out of the war.

In answer to questions from

Kiwanis members, Easterday said the drug problem in the armed forces was "over publicized and no more of a problem than in Circleville."

Fred Bower received a 1½ year perfect attendance pin from Joe Bell. The new pianist for Kiwanis is Barbara Painter, daughter of Doyle Painter. Her sister, Patty, was also a Kiwanis pianist.

Harold Hewitt, YMCA director, thanked the club for its continued support of the day camp which allowed 75 boys and girls six to nine years of age to go to camp. He also acknowledged the able leadership of two Kiwanians, Dick Penn and Jim Shea, who worked with the young people involved in swimming for the Piranha Club.

Justifies U.S. Military Aid To Thais

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says U.S. support of Thais fighting in Laos in violation of the 1962 Geneva Agreement is justified because of violations by North Vietnam.

In a statement issued Monday, the State Department said "some 80,000 North Vietnamese forces are not only directed against the neutral government of Laos, but also use the territory of Laos, the Ho Chi Minh Trail, to intervene in South Vietnam."

The United States "is entitled to withhold complete compliance in light of this failure by the Democratic Republic of North Vietnam to honor its obligations," the State Department said.

The 1962 agreement, which both the United States and North Vietnam signed, established Laos as a neutral country and prohibited use of foreign troops on Laotian soil.

The department's statement was issued after controversy arose over the presence of Thai troops in Laos supported by U.S. funds.

The Washington Post reported Monday that Thai soldiers serving with CIA-supported irregular forces in Laos say they are regular Thai army troops.

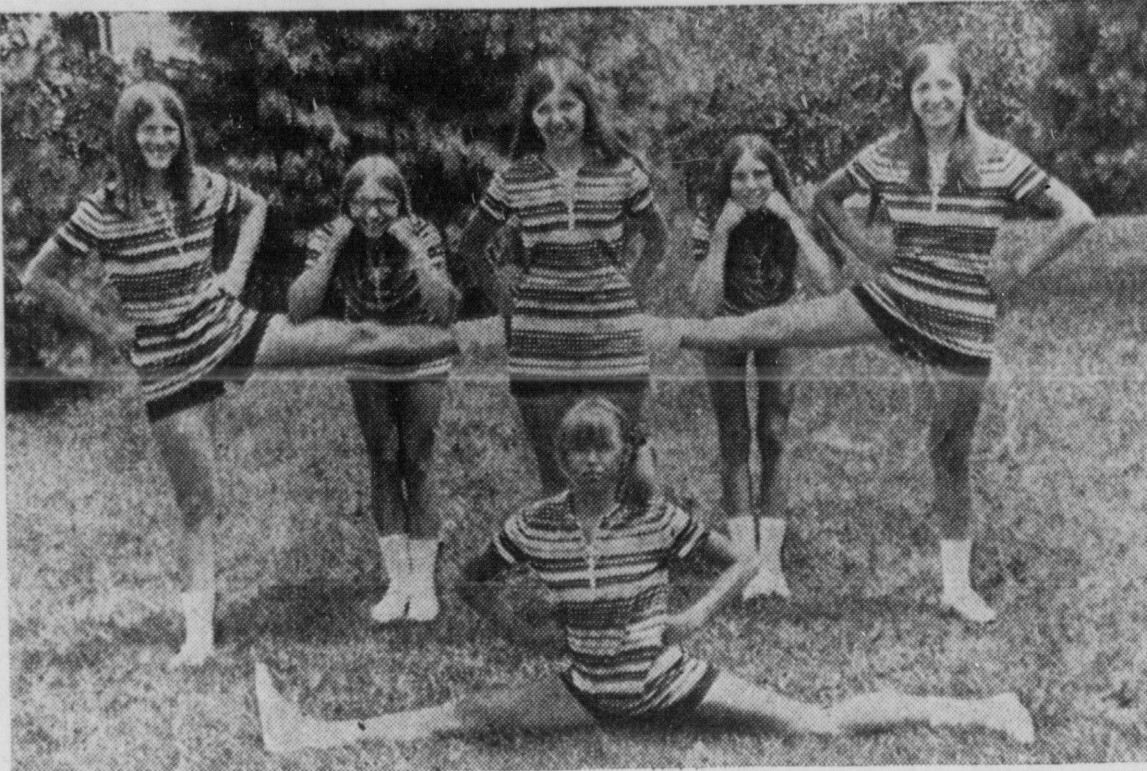

The State Department acknowledged June 7 that the U.S. government has provided support to Thais fighting in Laos but maintained they were volunteers and not regular troops, a position it reiterated Monday.

Federal Court Throws Out Welfare Residency Clause

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A panel of three federal judges has declared New York State's welfare residency law unconstitutional as a violation of the equal-protection clause in the 14th Amendment.

The office of state Atty. Gen. Louis Lefkowitz in Albany said the decision would be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The panel returned an oral, 38-word decision Monday, five minutes after hearing final arguments on the law, which required a year's residency in the state before welfare benefits could be received.

The decision was announced by the ranking jurist on the panel, Judge Paul R. Hays of the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

"We have decided to make the injunction permanent and not to issue an opinion in the case, but to decide the case for the position taken by the plaintiffs—that the statute is unconstitutional and must be enjoined," Hays said.

A temporary injunction against the residency requirement had been issued July 12 by Judge John T. Curtin in U.S. District Court, Buffalo.

In a formal order signed later Monday, the panel said the residency requirement was "unconstitutional under the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment to the United States Constitution."

A Connecticut residency law modeled on the New York State statute was declared unconstitutional July 29 in Hartford by another panel of three judges from the 2nd Circuit. That panel said the Connecticut law restricted citizens' rights to travel.

The New York law, advocated by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, went into effect July 1. It was challenged almost immediately by the American Civil Liberties Union on behalf of Pedro Lopez, a Puerto Rican with an epileptic wife and seven children.

KIWANIS SPEAKER — Glen Easterday (right), speaker at Circleville Kiwanis Club Monday, presents Jim Shea, president, a bayonet in appreciation for the club's outstanding promotion of patriotism and freedom.

Vietnam Veteran Speaker At Circleville Kiwanis Club

Glenn Easterday, a recently discharged chief warrant officer of the United States Army who spent a year and a half in Vietnam, was the speaker at Circleville Kiwanis Club Monday.

Easterday, a 1963 graduate of Circleville High School gave his views of "How It Really Is In Vietnam." He emphasized to Kiwanians that it is a controversial war and statements and opinions were his own.

Easterday said he had great respect for the North Vietnamese soldier, characterizing him as having intelligence and the will to win.

The Kiwanis speaker was an aircraft commander. He was shot down four times and wounded once.

Easterday said that fighting had gone on almost continuously in the country since 200 B.C. noting that the southern people are farmers and northern people industrialists, he predicted the north would take over easily if the United States withdrew its support.

But he said that he personally felt the United States should pull out of the war.

In answer to questions from

Kiwanis members, Easterday said the drug problem in the armed forces was "over publicized and no more of a problem than in Circleville."

Fred Bower received a 1½-year perfect attendance pin from Joe Bell. The new pianist for Kiwanis is Barbara Painter, daughter of Doyle Painter. Her sister, Patty, was also a Kiwanis pianist.
